

Menasha voters kill consolidation with Neenah

By DOUG KOPLIEN

Post-Crescent staff writer

MENASHA — Voters chorused a resounding "No" Tuesday to the question of whether Neenah and Menasha should continue talks on consolidating into a single municipality.

With 63 per cent of the 6,547 eligible voters going to the polls, the question of total consolidation was overwhelmingly turned back almost 4-to-1, effectively ending debate of the past 18 months.

Total consolidation was trowned in all six wards as was each of the other five, partial merger questions.

But, as consolidation questions were being soundly defeated along with a charter ordinance to extend the mayoral term from two to four years, voters gave a proposed downtown redevelopment project strong endorsement.

Tuesday's vote ended consolidation attempts which started in March, 1972, when the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance (WTA) began its study on whether municipal merger would be feasible.

However, talk of consolidation is not new. It dates back a century when early founders were embroiled in the same controversial debate on combining forces as a single city.

Now, with the cities of Menasha and Neenah midway through a joint centennial celebration, the consolidation issue again had come to the forefront as a special task force, headed by retired industrialist William Kellett, launched an in-depth study of the economic and political ramifications of merger broached by the WTA report.

The study, completed in early summer, projected savings of perhaps $600,000 plus increased political clout as a single and larger city of almost 40,000 people.

Facing negotiating consolidation with Neenah without really knowing what voters thought, the Menasha City Council ordered the advisory referendum.

Besides asking if the cities totally should consolidate, the ballot also posed individual questions on merging the two school systems, health departments, police and fire departments, public works and park-recreation departments, and maintaining a single city hall.

Voters recorded a strong "No" on every question by at least 2-to-1. The closest vote concerned merger of the two health offices — which had been supported by personnel within the departments. That lost by 1,291 votes, with 2,544 against and 1,253 in favor.

Question asking whether Menasha should sell its municipally owned electric utility was defeated, 3,179 to 884.

Despite fears by city officials that the redevelopment question might be rejected along with everything else, the electors gave it a strong vote of confidence.

The 2,497 to 1,568 vote will clear the way for the Menasha Redevelopment Authority (MRA) to start serious negotiations with a Minneapolis developer.

Ravenhorst Corp. plans a 13-15 store shopping complex in the city's downtown area, but has asked the city's help by providing the parking, public works projects and land purchases, which could take up to $500,000 in city money to accomplish.

Electors indicated approval of borrowing up to $400,000 to finance the city's share, and MRA has scheduled a meeting today to map out its next move.

The only mandatory question on the Tuesday ballot was whether the term of the mayor's office should be expanded from two to four years. Again the electors' message was "No" by a majority of nearly 600 votes.

Interest in the comprehensive — and complex — referendum ballot had reached a crescendo during the past week as committees for and against launched intensive telephone and personal contact campaigns to get their messages to the people.

After the resounding defeat, Kellett said, "It's obvious the people of Menasha do not want consolidation. I guess it's time for us to fold up our tent and quietly steal away."

Mayor James Adams, who had avoided taking a public stand although he had taken issue with the task force study on several items, commented, "We saved ourselves a lot of work (negotiating a consolidation ordinance) I'd say it's not only dead, but there's about eight feet of ground over it."

Only Menasha voted Tuesday. Neenah officials had taken a wait-and-see attitude, knowing that if Menasha turned the consolidation attempt aside there would be no reason for them to pursue it.

Kellett, who in his charge to the task force earlier this year had indicated that the issue should be answered conclusively enough to either "carry it through or bury it," admitted that the time had come to bury it.

Congress backs Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon conferred with congressional leaders today and won unanimous support for his administration's efforts to halt the Middle East war.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who reported the unanimous support, indicated the congressional leaders were told that it could be a long conflict.

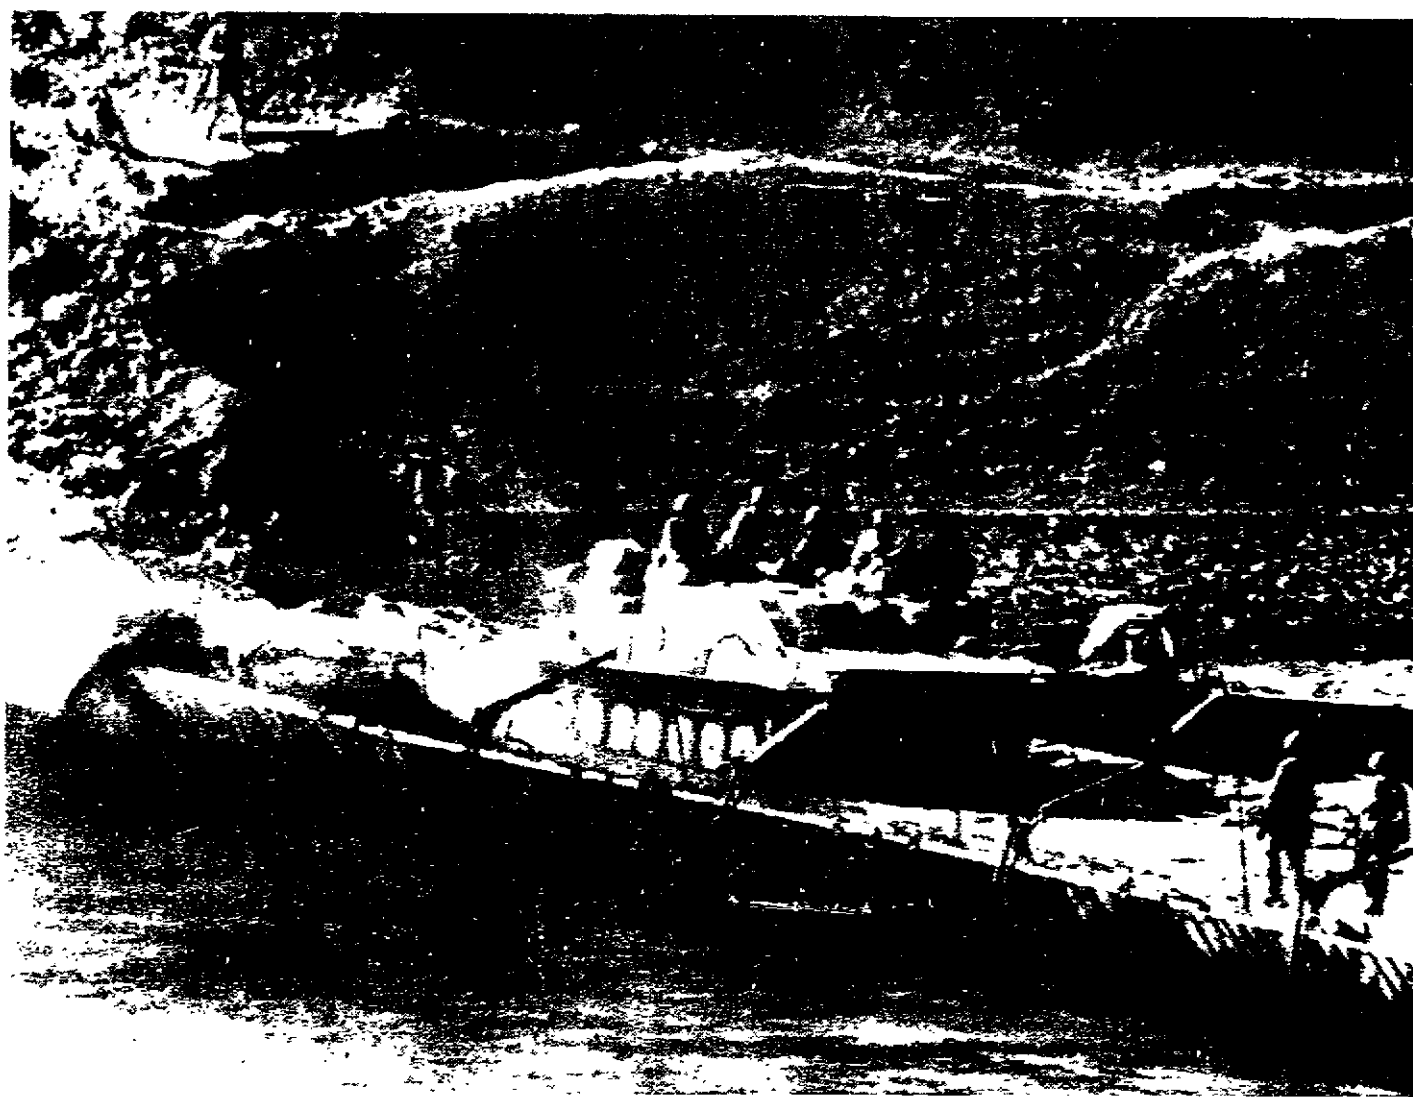

Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger gave a 90-minute briefing to 19 Democratic and Republican congressional leaders, bringing them up to date on the latest military and diplomatic developments.

Talking with reporters on the White House driveway after the meeting, Mansfield said that the question of supplying arms to Israel is "always under advisement" but that it did not arise at the meeting.

Mansfield, when asked whether there were predictions about the length of the conflict said, "It might not be a six-day war."

The congressional leaders, Mansfield said, "are unanimously behind the position" pursued by Nixon and Kissinger in their diplomatic contacts to "bring about a settlement in the Middle East."

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said regarding the administration peace efforts in the Middle East: "I find no fault with it. I think they're making a genuine effort to bring it (the war) to an early end and lay the groundwork for a permanent settlement."

Nixon administration concerned now about what Russians are saying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is increasingly uneasy about a lack of Soviet restraint in the new Middle East war, but U.S. officials are not yet willing to publicly charge Moscow with irresponsibility.

The concern over Soviet attitudes is limited at this time to what the Russians are saying. The officials say there is no indication now that Moscow intends to get involved directly or will supply large new shipments of arms to the Arabs.

The officials are cautious in their judgment of the Soviet role for two reasons: they don't want to go on the record with a firm assessment that might quickly be proved wrong, and they don't want to get into a shouting match with Moscow.

So far, the officials acknowledge, this has been a relatively one-sided situation. The Soviets have charged Israel with aggression, and their United Nations ambassador, Jacob Malik, said Tuesday night that Israeli leaders are "international criminals."

In addition, Soviet officials in Moscow and Russian ambassadors are calling in Arab diplomats to advise them to give direct support to Egypt and Syria and to assure them of the Kremlin's full backing.

On the other hand, the United States has yet to issue a public statement in support of Israel. And, while the State Department and Pentagon say the Arabs struck first, they have not condemned Egypt and Syria for starting the fighting.

American officials say the administration is willing to accept this situation for several reasons. For one, any hope that Washington can be accepted by both sides in arranging an ultimate Mideast settlement could be destroyed by strong charges against the Arabs.

There is also concern about the

Hughes paid $100,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's close friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo has confirmed receiving two secret $50,000 payments from billionaire Howard Hughes, according to Senate Watergate committee sources.

The sources said the committee wants to learn whether the $100,000 was linked to a federal antitrust ruling said in published reports to have permitted Hughes to expand his Las Vegas, Nev., interests.

One committee member said he would like Rebozo and the rarely seen Hughes called to testify in public.

In today's public session the committee was to hear Michael W. McMinoway, identified as a $1,000-a-month paid GOP spy whose reports from inside the campaign of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Tuesday, the committee heard from John Buckley, a former FBI agent, who said Nixon political operatives codenamed him "Fat Jack" when he worked as a lunch-hour spy photographing internal documents in the campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Committee sources said Rebozo told staff investigators he received the $100,000 sometime in 1970 from Richard

Danner, manager of a Hughes-owned Las Vegas hotel. Rebozo said he returned the money last spring, to Chester Davis, a Hughes lawyer, the sources said. They said Davis would be questioned privately later today.

Several other Hughes associates have been questioned, the sources said. Among them is Robert A. Mabeu, a former Hughes executive, who has testified in a California lawsuit that Nixon asked Rebozo to receive the money, which Mabeu said was intended as a campaign contribution.

Iraq's announcement that its air and ground forces were playing an active role in the fighting on both fronts formally brought in the Iraqis as the fourth Arab country ranged against Israel in the fourth Arab-Israeli struggle since 1948.

Pressure grows for U.S. help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure for combat aid to Israel is beginning to build here as the fighting rages in the Middle East, although the Israeli government has yet to make a public appeal to the Nixon administration for such help.

"We need time and equipment," Simcha Dinitz, Israel's ambassador to the United States, told a meeting of American Jewish leaders Tuesday.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir said his country's combat equipment losses in the first 100 hours of fighting amounted to about $952 million.

Sapir's estimate was quoted to the jammed meeting of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations here.

"Israel has lost huge quantities of critical defense materiel: aircraft, radar and missile installations, tanks and transport," said conference chairman Jacob Stein.

The challenge, Stein told the audience, is for American Jews to step up their fund-raising for Israel and to ask the Nixon administration "for supportive assistance to the extent and nature required."

So far, there has been no public clue to President Nixon's attitudes or position on such supportive assistance. Any U.S. decision would have to balance America's historic support for Israel and the Arab world's oil-based power politics.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., told the conference — called an emergency national convocation — that "we can assure Israel the arms it needs to defend itself."

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said U.S. detente with Russia "does not justify our sitting back as a complacent witness" to the fighting.

Calls for U.S. equipment support came in the Senate from Democrats Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Frank Church of Idaho and Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey.

Dinitz said the Israeli war aim is to drive the Syrians and Egyptians back over the ceasefire lines they crossed Saturday and "hand both armies such a devastating blow that they won't be able to regroup for an act of aggression for a very long time."

Dinitz said the Israeli government knew for several days that Arab forces were massing along the cease-fire lines but declined to make a pre-emptive strike, even though the forces were "sitting like ducks."

Instead, Dinitz continued, Israel sought through Washington and other friendly countries to avert the war by diplomatic means.

"We want everyone to be sure this time that Israel had done everything to prevent war. For this decision we are paying," he said.

"We must condition ourselves that it will be a harder, longer war" than in 1967, he added.

Court action on obscenity is lamented

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Jack Valenti of the Motion Picture Association of America says the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to review its obscenity ruling will force the industry to deal with state censorship laws.

"I'm counting on the good sense of state legislatures and judges," Valenti told a meeting of the Hollywood Radio and Television Society on Tuesday.

"I think it's good and common sense that will save well-intentioned works."

But he said that "what really scares me" are judges who cannot distinguish between responsible and well-intentioned films and pornography. Noting that the Georgia Supreme Court had upheld the obscenity conviction of "Carnal Knowledge," Valenti said:

"How ironic it is that the first film held up is not some sleazy pornographic film but a motion picture made by Mike Nichols and nominated for an Academy Award."

"If the U.S. Supreme Court turns down the appeal of 'Carnal Knowledge,' I count it a bleak day for creative artists. It means finely crafted films will be placed in the same category with pornography."

The Supreme Court on Tuesday refused review of a June ruling that obscenity should be judged by community standards. The court for the first time also removed the proviso that to be obscene a work must be "utterly without socially redeeming value."

Valenti said some critics of the industry want to censor what they don't like.

It's Cape Canaveral again, but still Kennedy Space Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — After being known as Cape Kennedy, for almost a decade, the historical name of Cape Canaveral has been restored to the central Florida cape that has served as the U.S. launching pad into space.

The action Tuesday by the federal Committee on Geographic Names came at the request of Rep. Lou Frey, Jr., R-Fla., whose district includes the cape. He said a majority of Floridians preferred the original name, which dates to the sixteenth century when the sandy cape was discovered by the Spanish explorer Ponce de Leon.

The name was changed to Cape Kennedy on Nov. 29, 1963, at the request of President Lyndon B. Johnson seven days after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The NASA space complex on the cape will continue to be known as the John F. Kennedy Space Center.

From rock band to police force

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Six months ago, 18-year-old Danny Steele was a rock band electrician who didn't think too much of cops. Today, he's the youngest patrolman on the Sunrise Police Force.

Bernie Loos, also 18, wears the uniform of the nearby Pembroke Pines Police Department, and Chief Orlando Nastri says Loos is a sharp cop who's "18 going on 40."

Local officials believe Steele and Loos are the first 18-year-olds to become policemen since the state lowered the age of majority from 21 to 18 last July. Steele, a 1973 graduate of Piper High School, says he had the usual teen-ager's disdain for the police until he started looking for a career.

"I wanted to do something that would help people, a job that would have some value," he said. "The more I saw of it, the more I realized that was police work."

Steele, who is assigned to a patrol car in the Fort Lauderdale suburb, hasn't made an arrest in his first two weeks as a policeman. But on his first day on the job, he climbed into a burning van to pull an accident victim to safety.

"I got shook afterwards," he said, "but I didn't have time to be scared when I was doing it."

Steele says civilians haven't commented on his age, adding, "The trouble isn't my age. It's just that some people don't have any respect for a police uniform."

Loos graduated from Hollywood Hills High in 1972 and attends Broward Community College in his off-duty time. He started as a policeman 11 days ago. On his second night on the job he was called to the scene of a burglary, where he tackled a fleeing suspect.

"I was scared to death, scared to death," says Loos, the son of a Hollywood, Fla., police sergeant. "Later, we found a knife in one of the man's pockets."

Nastri says several other men under 21 have applied for jobs. "and I think it's good. An 18-year-old who applies is screened much tighter than an older man, so you get the exceptional kids."

Eight perish in plane crash Tuesday night

INKSTER, Mich. (AP) — Eight persons aboard a twin-engine plane died Tuesday evening when the craft crashed into a densely populated residential area, authorities said.

Two of those killed were tentatively identified as Milwaukee men.

Officials said the airplane skidded about 350 feet down a street lined by homes and slammed into a utility pole but there were no reports of injuries to anyone on the ground.

Inkster police said two men, two women, three young girls and a boy were killed in the crash.

The Beechcraft airplane crashed about 7:30 p.m. while attempting to land at nearby Detroit Metropolitan Airport in foggy weather, said the Federal Aviation Administration.

Officials said tentative identification of the two men was taken from cards and papers found at the scene.

One man was tentatively identified as Joseph G. Berger and the other as Raymond J. Pritt, both of Milwaukee. The cards, they said, associated Berger with Beverage Distributors, Inc., of Milwaukee, while Pritt apparently worked for the A I Root Co. of Medina, Ohio.

The flight originated in Montreal, the officials said.

Woehler issues plea for caution on 'windfall' use

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

Outagamie County Board supervisors got their first look at the 1974 executive budget Tuesday and received along with it a plea from County Executive Alvin Woehler to be conservative and cautious in the use of windfall funds.

The budget as originally drawn up by Woehler called for a 39-cent reduction in the tax rate, but the figures have already changed. Woehler said a reworking of the social services department budget to stay within projected state allocations has resulted in a $30,000 reduction, but that a consolidation of projected programs under the new unified health services board shows an estimated $100,000 increase.

However, before the final budget is adopted in November another 10 cents has to come off the tax rate to meet the ceiling set by the state for Outagamie County.

Woehler told supervisors there would be no problem meeting that ceiling, but urged them not to get too generous and cut the rate much further. "We are fortunate in that we (Outagamie County) are affluent," he said.

While Woehler is estimating that the county will finish the year about $53,000 in the red, the county will have some $2 million in unbudgeted funds it could tap for tax relief or for special projects if it desired.

Woehler is estimating that the county will receive about $900,000 in federal revenue sharing funds next year. None of this money has yet been earmarked. In addition, the county will receive approximately $1.2 million from the state between now and next April to settle up past bills from the county health center.

Woehler is suggesting that $200,000 be taken from this "settling up" account to cover outstanding medical assistance costs that will remain in the social services department budget next year. This, he indicated, would get the tax levy about within the ceiling limit.

He also proposes taking another $200,000 to pay for proposed remodeling at the health center, an item not in the 1974 budget.

Second phase development at Plamann Park also could come from this fund, he told the board. The board is committed to park development, but it is not in Woehler's budget.

Other proposed new programs, such as a county health department, also could be funded through this windfall, he indicated.

However, Woehler warned, "be careful of starting new programs. In 1975 they will have to go on the tax levy." He urged that rather than use up all of the funds available this year, the county "should tell the taxpayers that they still have an $800,000 credit coming that will be applied in future years."

The executive conceded that another reason he wanted some of those funds left in the general account was the growing need for more cash to operate the county. "We need about $1.7 million a month to operate," he said.

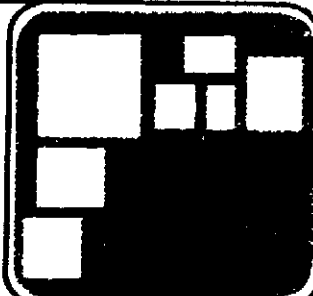

He added that if a provision in the state budget requiring counties to settle tax accounts with the state by March 22 is upheld, the county might not have enough cash available at that time. The county normally settles with the state after all the local tax collections are in.

Woehler conceded, under questioning from Supv. Eugene Kloes, that all of the proposed tax rate reduction in the 1974 budget was a direct result of the state takeover of some programs. "Without the state takeover we would be up 18 per cent," Woehler admitted.

If the budget process had remained unchanged, he said, the county would be facing a tax rate hike of 51 cents, instead of a 39-cent reduction.

"The obvious intent of the governor was to reduce property tax rates," Woehler said. "But I don't concur in the manner which the charges were transferred."

This is the first time that all county board members received full copies of the budget a month in advance of the budget hearings. The board's finance committee will start its look into the budget next Monday.

Appleton told to deal with fuel shortage

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

Members of the welfare and ordinance committee acted Tuesday to see that Appleton residents don't freeze this winter.

The committee recommended that Mayor James Sutherland head a Municipal Emergency Government Services agency to develop an emergency program in case a heating fuel shortage strikes the community.

Sutherland would appoint three members to the agency, under the committee's recommendation which will go to the City Council for action next week.

The committee acted after Howard Rathbun, deputy director of Outagamie County's Office of Emergency Government, said heating fuel dealers serving the county could assure an adequate supply only up to Jan. 1.

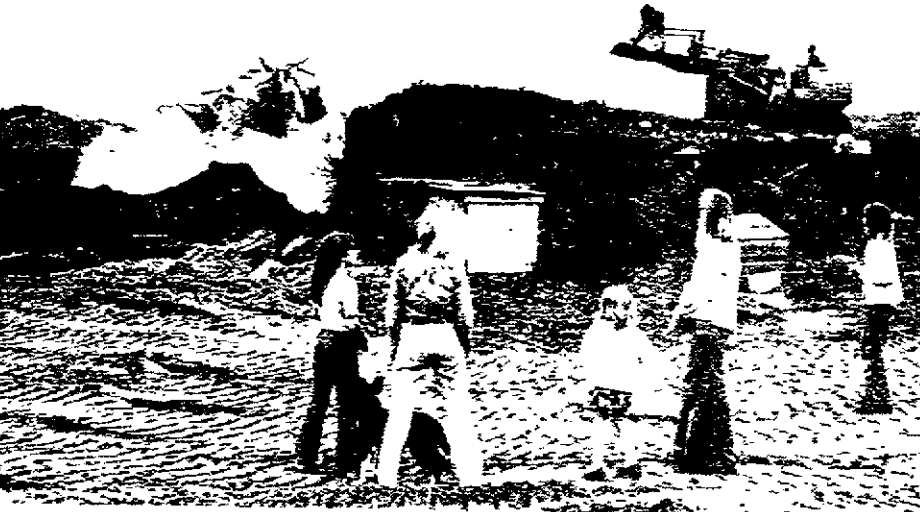

"This is where we could get zapped," said Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), who submitted the resolution to create the emergency program. The 2nd Ward alderman is worried that the Midwest war could combine with this country's predicted fuel shortage to leave people out in the cold this winter.

Kalata's initial suggestion was that the city hold a reserve of around 2,000 gallons of heating oil, which it could sell to homes that run short and can't find a supplier. The committee also discussed the possibility of housing people left without sufficient home heating fuel in public buildings.

Kimberly police slate sale of unclaimed items

KIMBERLY — The annual sale of bicycles and other lost items held by the police department for the required 30 day period will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in the parking lot at the municipal complex.

Bicycles, children's toys, eyeglasses and even electric irons have been collected or turned in to police, according to Chief Donald Schneck. Persons having lost or missing items can come to the station on the day before the sale claim them upon identification, he concluded.

Appleton area shows economic activity gains

Economic activity in the Appleton area during August remained well above the levels of a year ago in all factors except residential construction, two University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh economists reported today.

Keith E. Voelker and Daniel W. Raaf, of the UW-Oshkosh economics department, pointed out in their second issue of "Appleton Area Economic Indicators" that the growth rate in certain indicators over the past year has been impressive.

Total employment registered a 4.6 points, or 4.3 per cent, gain over August, 1972, while manufacturing employment was up 5 points, or 5 per cent. Both margins of gain increased over that established during the first quarter of 1973, the economists said.

The economists used 1971 as the base year, giving it the number 100. Only the figures for unemployment rates weren't factored with 1971 as a base year.

Unemployment continued to decline throughout 1973, they reported. The August rate was 4 per cent compared with 4.5 per cent in July, 1973, and 4.8 per cent in August, 1972. The statewide unadjusted rate for August was 4.1 per cent.

Average weekly earnings in manufacturing rose 2.7 points, or 2.3 per cent, to 117.7 points, over July, 1973, largely because of a slightly higher average hourly wage rate and an increase in the average number of hours worked per week, Voelker and Raaf said. The August, 1972, to August, 1973, hike was 6.9 points, or 6.2 per cent.

Large store retail sales rose sharply in August, the gain of 21.2 points, or 22 per cent, to 117.4 points, from July, 1973, being larger than might be expected on a seasonal basis, the two said.

"This combined with the fact that sales are 12.5 points (or nearly 12 per cent) ahead of August, 1972, indicates that they remain healthy in the Appleton area," they said.

Bank debits continued at high levels relative to 1972, probably in part reflecting the recent turbulence of the credit markets. They rose from 139.6 points in July, 1973, to 143.6 in August, 1973, and were 117.8 in August, 1972.

The economists said this indicator may be inflated abnormally for United Fund campaign at 47.2 pct.

The United Fund campaign has nearly reached the halfway mark in little less than a month of operation. The new total of $251,912 is 47.2 per cent of the $533,844 goal.

Jerome Boettcher, campaign chairman, noted that "We have been getting contributions from people who never gave before this year." He said he was also pleased that people have been increasing the amounts of their donations over the previous year's.

Gus Zuehlke and his corporate gifts division leads the section list with 79.4 per cent of the $175,000 goal. The total to date is $139,002.

Other section totals reported this week include:

- Construction: Tim Stone, chairman; $16,095 or 61.9 per cent of $26,000.
- Public-civic: Dei Schuh, chairman; $13,364 or 39.3 per cent of $34,000.
- Large firm employees: Glen Schilling, chairman; $63,347 or 31.7 per cent of $199,844.
- Commercial: Steve Winter, chairman; $4,267 or 30.5 per cent of $14,000.
- Professional: Jim Riedl, chairman; $6,948 or 27.8 per cent of $25,000.
- General: Alice Tysver, chairman; $3,664 or 22.9 per cent of $16,000.
- Manufacturing-wholesale: Ron Reynolds, chairman; $2,261 or 19.7 per cent of $11,500.
- Retail B-hard goods: Tom Van Wyk, chairman; $1,197 or 15 per cent of $8,000.
- Retail A-consumables and dry goods: Jim Vosper, chairman; $781 or 12 per cent of $6,500.
- Service: Don Vanden Burgt, chairman; $909 or 11.4 per cent of $8,000.
- Heart of the Valley: Irving Curry III, chairman; $74 or .7 per cent of $10,000.

Kaukauna school budget top $4 million for '74

KAUKAUNA — The board of education Tuesday adopted a 1974 school budget calling for total expenditures of $4,147,851, or $266,075 more than the 1973 budget.

However, the amount to be raised by tax levy in the city decreases $318,171 to $2,821,101, from $3,139,272.

Kaukauna's share of the total levy decrease is $390,698 and the outlying area shows an increase of $32,522. The 1973 budget showed outlying areas responsible for 27.55 per cent of the tax levy, and in 1974 those areas will pay 31.81 per cent.

A 10.14 per cent decrease in the total tax levy is broken down to show a decrease of 9.49 per cent, or $297,808, in operational costs and of .65 per cent, or $20,362, in debt retirement, the first time in many years that the district has realized a decrease in the latter category.

Before budget adoption, cuts totaling about $75,000 were made to permit the district to stay in state-established limitations for budget increases.

A major cause of the tax levy decrease is the increase in anticipated state aids, from $339,155 to $1,126,630. Several other aids formerly received by the school district have been cut and additional expenses such as Social Security and retirement contributions formerly made by the state transferred to school district responsibility.

Overall, the district expects $1,326,750 in outside aids in 1974, compared with $595,146 in 1973. Total equalized valuation of the district jumped $9,712,900 to $175,993,400, and the drop in tax levy represents a $3.77 per $1,000 decrease in taxes.

Kaukauna residents can expect a $3.06 decrease in tax levy for school purposes.

Other areas showing decreases in tax levy include Town of Buchanan, $5,141, Town of Vandenbroek, $362, and Village of Sherwood, $4,551. Increases in tax levy will be faced by Town of Harrison, $13,458, Village of Little Chute, $12,107, Town of Holland, $5,412; Town of Kaukauna, $7,163, and Town of Woodville, up $1,796.

A breakdown of 1974 budget expenditures shows instruction at 56.7 per cent of the total budget, up 0.2 per cent last year to $2,348,300; fixed charges, which include Social Security and retirement costs, make up 11.2 per cent of the budget, up 1.5 per cent over last year and costing $525,068, and school operation accounting for 8.7 per cent of the budget, down 0.3 per cent last year, amounting to $298,326.

Transportation costs amounting to $163,330 account for 3.9 per cent of the budget, down 0.2 per cent from last year and maintenance costs were set at $85,506 for 2.1 per cent of the budget, the

Kimberly voters speak, board ignores them

KIMBERLY — The board of education decided Monday night to continue study into developing a physical education area adjacent to the high school even though school district voters twice rejected the proposal.

A referendum last April saw voters turn down a proposal to develop the facility, 1,088 to 810. At the annual meeting in July, taxpayers authorized borrowing $150,000 to develop the facility by a 53-26 vote.

Action at the annual meeting resulted in persons opposing the plan circulating a petition asking for reconsideration. A special meeting was called again and again the $150,000 project was voted down by a 335-256 vote.

School board members are unanimous in their belief that the facility is badly needed in order to insure proper physical as well as mental development of students. Monday they authorized Board President Mrs. Marie Ruys to prepare a list of citizens considered for appointment to a citizen's committee to guide the board on a future course of action.

The Citizen Committee would undertake a study of existing facilities, determine what it feels is needed and make recommendation to the board on whether to hold another referendum, call a special meeting or discard plans entirely. No date was set for start of the committee.

Resolutions were adopted naming the Kimberly State Bank the official depository and authorizing the borrowing of money up to $600,000 at interest not to exceed 6 per cent as needed.

Orville Clark, coordinator of special education for CESA 8, appeared before the board and explained the 1973 law concerning pupils with educational handicaps.

He said the law requires screening of every child entering school and those found to have handicaps are then recommended for prescribed study by a multi-disciplinary team, consisting of either a psychologist or psychiatrist and a person in a field relating to the student handicap.

After his talk the board named Clark, School Supt. Ray Hamann and various school principals to a committee to investigate needs of the district in relation to the handicapped and report findings and recommendations to the board of education.

Telephone service is great, but expensive

By BILL LEACH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Subscribers of the Stockbridge & Sherwood Telephone Co., Inc., probably have the most modern up-to-date phone service "generally available in Wisconsin," a public hearing on alleged disparities in utility rates disclosed Monday, but they are paying "ludicrously" for that service.

Six subscribers of S & S presented their cases during the third of four hearings before the Assembly's Special Committee on Telephone and Electricity Rate Disparities Monday at the Fox Valley Technical Institute in Appleton. During the committee's second hearing in September, it was revealed that the Village of Sherwood pays the highest rate in the state for monthly, one-party service. A figure of $12.50 was quoted then for Sherwood.

Village of Stockbridge subscribers, according to Mrs. Clem Schumacher, pay $11.75 monthly for residential, one-party service. "That must make our rate the second highest in the state," she said.

She said businesses pay $22.52 for phone service in Stockbridge.

"We feel we're being taken," she said, adding that rates had "more than doubled since 1969," but there had not been much of an increase in service or the area which can be called toll-free.

Stockbridge's extended area service (toll-free calls) includes Sherwood and Chilton. Subscribers also may have colored phones. Extended area service for Sherwood subscribers covers Kaukauna, Hilbert, Stockbridge and Appleton. Service in this area includes touch-tone instruments.

F.C. Huebner, a representative of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission, which regulates utility rates in the state, outlined the history of S & S and its expenditures after Samuel Huebner, Forest Junction, another subscriber in the Sherwood area, questioned the high cost of service.

The WPSC spokesman said Stockbridge and Sherwood exchanges began converting from magneto manual switchboard service to automatic dial operation in 1960. The conversion was completed in April, 1961. Service was mainly of the party-line type.

The company purchased the Tisch Mills exchange in 1966 and converted it to automatic dial in 1967 at a total cost of $143,372. The company was authorized in 1970 to convert the Stockbridge and Sherwood exchanges to one-party service, discontinuing two-party and multiparty service. Construction was completed in 1971, when $617,282 of buried cable was added, resulting in a primarily buried plant, and new rates were authorized in 1972 — "The straw that broke the camel's back," Mrs. Schumacher said.

F. Huebner said service for Stockbridge-Sherwood residents had gone from the "most antiquated" to the "most modern generally available in Wisconsin." "There is always a large investment for updating equipment, he added.

But state Rep. Gary Barzak, co-chairman of the special rate disparities committee, said the subscribers are "paying ludicrously for their service." They can't call anywhere, to speak of, he charged. "The Public Service Commission is supposed to be the watchdog for the consumer."

Huebner pointed out that extended area service is considered after applications have been made by the subscribers. "But I don't know why Stockbridge doesn't have service to other areas (as Sherwood does)."

He said boundaries of ownership and service of telephone companies haven't kept pace with widened community interests (expanding school districts, need for fire protection and surges in municipal government), but extended area service is growing to meet the demands.

Mrs. Lester Keller, another Forest Junction subscriber, said her service area cut her off from her children attending Brillion schools (an emergency would necessitate a long-distance call) and ambulance and hospital facilities (also long-distance calls).

Still another Forest Junction subscriber, Mrs. Leonard Krueger, said she paid $14 a month for one-party, push-button service. She admitted that some elderly citizens in the area had asked to have their phones removed because they could not pay the bills out of their fixed incomes. "And a phone is a necessity for an elderly person, especially for reaching the doctor," she said.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fischer, Stockbridge, requested toll-free service to the Fox Valley, where many of the village's men are employed, where many families go to shop and where many students attend college or vocational schools. "We don't have as much business with Chilton and Forest Junction as we do with the Valley," she explained.

William Eick, another WPSC representative, said the cost of a utility is based on the company's investment in providing the service to its area customers as he attempted to explain why rates may vary from one region to another.

Barzak asked him if there was anything that could be done about the "hodgepodge" of territorial jurisdictions in the state, particularly where the 119 Wisconsin telephone companies are concerned.

"We're anxious to see this corrected," Eick said, especially where out-of-state firms purchase local utilities, often creating a higher rate for service — as is the case with S & S, owned by Telephone and Data Systems, Inc., of Illinois, with a Madison office.

Representatives of other utilities and their subscribers also appeared before the committee, chaired by state Rep. Gervase Hephner, D-Chilton. A report of the committee's four hearings and subsequent recommendations will be made to the Assembly next year. "Corrective legislation may be recommended to rectify the rate disparities," Hephner said.

The committee will meet 1 p.m. Nov. 6 in the city-county building in LaCrosse.

Other areas showing no change in percentages from the 1973 budget were attendance, costing $5,745 and representing 0.1 per cent of the budget; health services costing $18,288, 0.4 per cent of the budget, and student activities costing $3,500 and representing 0.1 per cent.

Capital outlays in 1974 amount to $76,572, 1.8 per cent of the budget, an increase of 0.4 per cent over last year; administration costs were set at $62,864, or 1.5 per cent of the budget, down 0.1 per cent from last year.

Debt service dropped from 15.8 to 14.3 per cent of the budget and amounts to $592,060 for 1974.

Mayor Robert La Plante, who was present at the budget meeting, was pleased with the decrease in tax levy and indicated he would make his feelings known when the budget is reviewed by the fiscal control board at 7 p.m. Oct. 18 in the Kaukauna council chambers.

Center, was granted permission to attend an agency for instructional television seminar at Kansas City, Mo., on Oct. 30 and 31.

Mrs. Hardtke, who will be installed as president of the Wisconsin Association for School Libraries this month, was invited to the seminar with costs to be paid by the development and curriculum division of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Board members noted that the district had been utilizing instructional television for the past five years and with the advent of cable educational TV Mrs. Hardtke should be kept abreast of developments in that field.

In other action the board: — Approved dismissal of Junior High students the final period before lunch if a student had no classes, in an effort to help alleviate overcrowding.

— Accepted the resignation of Mrs. Cheryl Kissling as third grade teacher at the end of the quarter.

— Accepted low bids amounting to $9,444 for liability, workmen's compensation and fire insurance.

— Agreed to join the Kimberly Education Association in observance of National Education Week by having open house at district schools, including Westside and Janssen schools on Oct. 22; Ryan, Maple Street and Junior High on Oct. 23, and at the Senior High on Oct. 24. All will start at 7:30 p.m.

Economic gains...

the last several months, representing transfer of funds in response to high interest rates on certificates of deposit.

The value of residential building permits issued in August, 1973, declined sharply from the July level, dipping from 257.0 to 94.5 points, or more than 63 per cent. The August, 1972, total was 95.5.

This was caused partially by a permit being issued in July for a large, multi-family unit, which was not matched in August, they said.

While this indicator fluctuates widely from month to month, the cumulative year-to-date basis shows total value of building permits still lagging in 1973. The two economists said this was not surprising in light of the credit situation of recent months.

Postal receipts went from 107.7 points in July, 1973, to 105.8, and was 97.9 in August, 1972. Commercial and industrial power went from 115.1 in July to 127.1 in August, and was 114.7 in August, 1972.

Pierce Park is center of Applefest 'festival'

Much of the "festival" part of Applefest will focus next week on Pierce Park with dances, concessions, carnival rides, concerts and worship services designed to bring the community closer together.

A free teen dance will be held Friday night at the Pierce Park pavilion to pave the way for the following nine festival days. The dance is scheduled for 8 p.m. to midnight with the six-piece rock band "Carnaby Street" playing. The dance is sponsored by the Appleton Woman's Club.

The carnival rides, sponsored by Northside Kiwanis Club, will begin operation at 6 p.m. Friday. Tickets will be 40 cents per ride. Advance tickets can be purchased at 5 tickets for $1.

There will be about 15 rides operating, part of the Tip Top Shows from Waupaca. The carnival will open at noon on both Saturdays, at 11 a.m. the first Sunday, and at 6 p.m. each week day. The final Sunday, carnival rides will begin at noon.

Booths featuring brats, beer, pie, tacos, popcorn, arts and crafts, and Applefest material will be operated by several local organizations.

Food booths will be run by the Greater Kiwanis Club, the Appleton and Valley Business and Professional Clubs, the Noon Optimist Club, National Organization for Women and LaRaza, Inc.

Applefest buttons will be sold by the Breakfast Kiwanis and Legal Secretaries. Applefest cookbooks will be sold by the Appleton Junior Woman's Club, red apple aprons and potholders will be sold by the Y auxiliary. Arts and crafts will be sold by St. Therese Women and free travel consultation will be offered by Universal Travel Service.

The Fox Valley Women's Political Caucus will sponsor a beer tent and has scheduled three bands to provide entertainment in the evening. On Sunday, Harry Koehler's three-piece band will perform. The Little German Band will play Friday, Oct. 19, and Mel Baeten and orchestra will play Saturday, Oct. 20.

Square dancing, round dancing and the Big Apple will be featured at Pierce Park Saturday. The Grand Squares Square Dance Club will have a free square dance starting at 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Round dancing will also be available.

Local area callers are invited. Lyle Leatherman, Menasha, is the caller for the sponsoring club, which has about 30 members.

A Big Apple dance contest will begin at 5 p.m. Saturday at the pavilion. The contest is sponsored by the Multiple Listing Service of Fox Valley, Inc. A $25 savings bond will be awarded to the first place finishers. A flowering crab apple tree is the second prize and a bushel of apples goes to the third place winner. The contest is under the direction of Hazel Jockman and judging will be done by the Arthur Murray Dance Studio.

A Sunday morning worship service will include meditation, readings and music by youth featuring the Sole Singers at Pierce Park. The First Congregational Church youth group will direct the service. The 10 a.m. service will be followed at 10:45 by a brunch served by Church Women United.

The Appleton City Band will perform at 2 p.m. Sunday and the day will be capped with the two-hour Pat Boone show at Appleton High School-East.

The Kimberly Band will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the pavilion. There will be two band concerts Thursday. The Little Chute Band will perform at 7:30 p.m. and the Lawrence University Band will follow at 8:30 at the pavilion.

Friday activities at Pierce Park will include a politicians' night in which local and state officials have been invited to attend and help serve beer.

The Americanos Drum and Bugle Corps will be serving chili, hot dogs, coffee, hot chocolate, and apples at their booth which will open at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 20.

Applefest will conclude with a vesper service at the pavilion at 4 p.m. Sunday. The service entitled "Let's celebrate our differences" will include the Sing Our Fox Cities youth group.

Pierce Park will close at midnight each night of the festival. Don Goodman of the Snug Inn Motel has donated the use of his doubledecker bus to Applefest, Inc.

On weekdays throughout the festival, the doubledecker bus will make runs to Pierce Park between 6 and 9 p.m. It will stop at Kahler's Motel, Conway Motor Inn and Valley Fair. The bus will bring senior citizens to the Pat Boone show on Sunday afternoon. Reservations can be made by calling 739-7316.

Throughout the carnival, flowering crab apple trees will be sold at a booth. Gift certificates are also available so trees may be given for Christmas or other special events.

Donations will be accepted at the booth as well as at the YMCA, inside the 1st National Bank and on its Lawrence Street lot Oct. 18 and 19. The donations will go toward the planting of trees on school yards. The "Y" Garden Club initiated the project. Trees can be picked up at the nursery members of the Fox Cities Landscape Contractors Association during the week of Arbor Day, April 22-27.

MEAT SUBSTITUTES and MEAT EXTENDERS!

No more than 1/3 of the food budget should be spent for meat. "Meat" is used in the broad sense here, and includes poultry, fish and seafood. It's becoming quite a challenge to live within the meat budget. Many families are having to look to alternatives such as dry beans and peas, eggs and peanut butter. These foods are suitable replacements for meat because they provide protein and other nutrients for which meat, poultry and fish are valued. Cheese can also be used. Cheese is lacking in iron which meat provides, but it is a good source of calcium which meat is not.

MAIN DISH MEAT EXTENDER — BEAN CASSEROLE

This recipe was given to me by Mrs. Bob Geer (Bev). With the help of beans, ground beef is made to serve 8.
1/2 lb. bacon (optional) — 1 lb. ground beef — 1/2 cup onion — 1/2 cup catsup — 1 teaspoon salt — 2 teaspoons vinegar — 3/4 cup brown sugar — 1 teaspoon prepared mustard — 19 oz. can baked beans — 15 1/2 oz. can lima beans drained — 15 1/2 oz. can kidney beans with liquid
Cut bacon in 1 inch squares and fry to a golden brown. Drain. Pour bacon fat out of skillet and save to use in cooking some other time.
Put ground beef and onion in skillet and brown lightly, stirring often with a fork. Stir in rest of ingredients and pour into a 2 quart casserole. Bake 40 minutes in a preheated 350° F oven. Serves 8 (serving 1 cup apiece).
Super Tip: To cut cost and calories, omit bacon.

already critical oil situation, and the United States is concerned that the Middle East crisis could hurt relations with the Russians.

But none of these factors has eliminated the private doubts of some U.S. officials about Moscow's position. So, while crediting Moscow with no evident intention to enlarge the scope of the war, U.S. officials nevertheless say the Soviet Union is not attempting to restrain the Arabs.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey also shied away from a direct answer when asked Tuesday if the Soviets have acted responsibly.

"I don't know that it is fair to pose the question of responsibility and irresponsibility in that nakedly," he said.

The whole question of the Arab-Israeli war and its relation to American foreign policy has been the subject of constant meetings by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon and other government officials, including a session today at the White House with congressional leaders. At a White House dinner Tuesday, Kissinger said he may postpone an Oct. 13 trip to London because of the war.

The meeting with the Capitol Hill figures came after Sens. Henry A. Jackson of Washington and Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey, both Democrats, called for new shipments of American military equipment to Israel.

Administration spokesmen have refused to comment on the U.S. military aid program for Israel. However, there are no signs of any American cutback in its arms sales to Israel or that Washington will not replace heavy equipment if Israel faced imminent danger.

American officials are trying to work out a comprehensive policy for the current crisis but are hampered by several factors, including uncertainty about the tide of battle.

Another unstable factor is the lack of a decisive interpretation of why the Arabs attacked Israel's positions.

Nixon wants to avoid rationing of fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Still smarting from the failure of its voluntary approach to wholesale fuel distribution, the Nixon administration now is urging the public to save fuel voluntarily in the hope of avoiding direct retail rationing.

Asked whether voluntary conservation would work any better than voluntary allocation, White House energy adviser John A. Love told newsmen Tuesday:

"It is very important that we give it as hard a try as possible on a voluntary basis, because the alternative is so difficult to contemplate."

He made it clear the "alternative" meant direct consumer rationing, the last resort in the administration's contingency plan for energy shortages.

The war in the Middle East has emphasized the U.S. energy problem and its sensitivity to any sudden disruption of deliveries of Middle Eastern oil imports.

And, even without disruption, the U.S. energy supply will be very tight this winter, government experts predict, with propane gas in short supply, natural-gas service curtailed, home heating oil short by at least 100,000 barrels a day and dry weather causing a hydroelectric power shortage in the Northwest.

The White House response was Tuesday's announcement of a "public education" campaign to save energy, with cartoon-dog "Snoopy" as its mascot.

But Love's briefing for reporters and his earlier testimony before a House small business subcommittee seemed to place voluntary fuel conservation at roughly the position voluntary allocation occupied last August before it collapsed into mandatory federal control.

Snoopy recruited

The Nixon administration enlisted the cartoon character Snoopy Tuesday as the symbol for a massive campaign to conserve energy supplies. With the Middle East war casting new shadows over U.S. fuel imports, the public is being asked to take steps to ease the predicted fuel shortage this winter. [AP Wirephoto]

Last May 10, the administration issued guidelines for the distribution of scarce fuels to priority users and past customers. It asked the petroleum industry to follow them voluntarily.

On Oct. 2, the White House admitted the failure of voluntary fuel allocation, imposed immediate mandatory allocation of propane and promised an early mandatory program for home heating oil and other "middle distillates."

Asked how long it would take to tell whether voluntary fuel conservation would work, Love said, "I can't give you an exact time, how long we would wait."

The timing may not be up to the Nixon administration.

Love noted, in answer to questions, that Saudi Arabia seemed to consider its present oil income adequate and might start withholding additional oil.

Should that happen, Love said, "we would find it difficult, if not impossible, to import the amount of heating oil we are going to need this winter."

The administration has pressed programs to increase domestic energy supplies, but Love emphasized that they would take time.

'Pay kidnapers,' Getty notes say

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ROME, Italy (AP) — J. Paul Getty III, the missing 16-year-old grandson of the American oil billionaire, has appealed to his family to pay his kidnapers the ransom they demand or he will be killed in a "brutal and inhuman fashion," his mother's lawyer reported today. The newspaper Il Messaggero printed two messages which the lawyer said were in young Getty's handwriting; one said the ransom must be paid in 15 days, but neither message named a sum. The youth disappeared three months ago.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Chile and Cuba are waging a war of words at the United Nations. Chile charged that Cuba sent men and arms to form a private army for Chile's late Marxist president, Salvador Allende. Cuba retaliated that the new Chilean rightist junta is guilty of "atrocities." The Cuban foreign minister led a walkout by about 20 delegations when the Chilean foreign minister addressed the General Assembly Wednesday.

TAIPEI (AP) — For the second year in a row, aged and infirm President Chiang Kaishek, failed to preside at the anniversary celebration of the Chinese Republic. Some 250,000 persons got drenched at a 20-minute rally marking the 62nd anniversary. Chiang's son, Premier Chiang Cing-kuo, was present.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — The International Air Transport Association has announced fare increases on North Atlantic air routes averaging six per cent. The increases, effective Jan. 1, will be balanced by fare cuts ranging from two to 12 per cent for journeys beginning in countries whose currencies were recently revalued upward: West Germany, Austria, Switzerland, the Netherlands and Belgium, for example.

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada and his wife arrived in Peking today for a week's visit to China. They were met by Premier Chou En-lai and other high-ranking officials, according to Hsinhua news agency.

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Opposition parties have agreed to form a coalition to challenge the ruling coalition headed by President Carlos Arana Osorio in the presidential election next March. The opposition candidate is Gen. Kjell Eugenio Laugerud Garcia, a former defense minister.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is taking up a revised bill to limit the power of the president to wage undeclared war. The bill would require withdrawal within 60 days of U.S. armed forces sent into hostilities without congressional approval. President Nixon has said he would veto such a bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tough strip mining regulation bill has been passed by the Senate and now goes to the House. The Senate approved the measure 82 to 8 after rejecting an industry-backed move to soften its reclamation requirements.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence analysts say that Jordan, remembering its severe territorial losses in the 1967 Middle East war, hopes to stay out of this round of fighting. Nonetheless, they report that Jordan's King Hussein is under mounting pressure to send troops, tanks and planes against Israel to aid the Egyptians and Syrians.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A real estate agent says the records on the $190,000 sale of a Maryland home to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew have been subpoenaed by the federal grand jury in Baltimore probing alleged kickbacks from Maryland contractors. Peter Burr says the documents were subpoenaed on Sept. 25.

No 4-year mayor in Menasha

MENASHA — Mayors here will continue to spend a larger portion of one term just getting established and worrying whether they'll be around for another two years. Residents, however, will get more frequent opportunity to oust a mayor whose policies meet with their disfavor.

Those are the net effects of Tuesday's referendum calling for four-year mayoral terms, which lost, 2,302 to 1,784.

The measure won surprising victories in the third and sixth wards, however, passing by a slim 23 votes in the latter. In the other four wards, voters generally ran 3-2 against it.

The referendum, the only mandatory one on the ballot, called for four-year terms starting next April 2. Mayor James Adams was the first to suggest four-year terms, and the proposal passed as a charter ordinance by just the two-thirds council vote needed last June 5.

Ald. Hugh (Bud) Geibel, whose fifth ward showed the strongest opposition to the proposal, said this morning he thought the longer terms were good "in concept," but that there are "valid" arguments the other way.

"If you would happen to get an incompetent person in there it would take longer to get rid of him," said Geibel, echoing an argument frequently used by critics of the measure.

Geibel and the other fifth ward representative, Herbert Batley, circulated a petition that forced the question to a referendum. Otherwise, the ordinance would have automatically taken effect 60 days after the council approval.

Adams, a former school teacher serving out his second consecutive term, said he was disappointed with the outcome.

"I was disappointed. I think it's a four-year responsibility for anyone who's going to get his programs off the ground.

"It takes two years to get your programs going and I don't think they really bear fruit until about three years afterwards," Adams said. "I think it's too bad but it that's the kind of term the people want, then it's right for them to decide."

Adams pointed to his own efforts toward downtown redevelopment, a measure which passed Tuesday, as a dramatic example of where a longer tenure paid off. Had he not been re-elected last year, Adams said, his successor would have had to "start all over again."

Adams said Tuesday he would have reconsidered seeking another term had the mandatory referendum passed. This morning, he said he would definitely not seek another term.

Geibel said he and Batley circulated the petition believing that a decision rightfully should be up to the voters.

"Twelve aldermen shouldn't decide alone on any charter ordinance," Geibel said.

Geibel, Batley, and Alds. Raymond Zielinski and Richard Heindl filed no votes when the ordinance came before the council in June. Then, the ordinance squeezed through, 8-4.

Cable TV may come to Kaukauna by 1975

KAUKAUNA — City officials and interested citizens were informed Monday night that partial cable television service could become a reality in the city early in 1975.

Richard Schrad, representative of Telcom Engineering Inc., St. Louis, Mo., the firm hired by the city to serve as consultants for cable television service, outlined a timetable to be followed to make the service available.

He said that the first step would be drafting of an enabling ordinance which aldermen could have by Dec. 1. After study by aldermen and recommendations, a second draft would be ready early in January. The second draft would be submitted to persons or firms seeking the cable franchise and after their review a final draft would be available about March 1.

He noted that the city would then advertise for proposals on the franchise which could be opened about mid-April and awarded, after thorough study, about the third week in May after a series of public hearings.

Strad estimated that construction on the system would get under way early next summer and parts of it would be operational early in 1975. He said that his time estimate was conservative and parts of it could be operational earlier than 1975.

Aldermen were informed that any costs to the city, such as consultant fees and preparation of pole maps for use by the successful franchise bidder should be recovered by the city from the firm securing the franchise. Costs for this service had been estimated at about $11,500.

Kimberly begins yearbook sales

KIMBERLY — The sale of subscriptions for the 1973-74 Kimberly High School yearbook, "Kimet," has begun and will continue through Oct. 31 at the school.

Supplements to the 1972-73 yearbook are available at the high school and can be picked up by those who ordered the book last year. This applies mainly to 1973 graduates who have not picked up the supplements which feature spring school activities and graduation.

Kim Polman, Cindy Reynebeau and Debbie Van Nuland were named editors in chief for the publication.

Senior editors are Sue Jansen and Patty Mader with Carol Revoir, Lori Hull, Rene Ristau, Lisa Helf and Bonnie Stark to serve as underclass editors. Sports editors will be Linda Gilson and Dan Valenryne with Cindy Nelessen, Barb Luniak, Lu Ann Van Zeeland and Ann Vander Heiden as organizations' editors.

Silo suffocation

LADYSMITH, Wis. (AP) — Ervin F. Barenthin, 29, of rural Tony died Tuesday of apparent suffocation in the dome of a nearly full silo on a Rusk County farm.

He explained that the enabling ordinance was designed to protect both the city and subscribers to the cable service and covered areas not presently required of cable television companies by the Federal Communications Commission.

Strad estimated that when the service to the city becomes a reality, subscribers could expect to get eight broadcast signals in addition to FM radio, a government access channel, an educational access channel and a public access channel. He said cost to subscribers could run from $5 to $7 per month.

The city would reap some financial gain from the service, both in pole rental through its local utility and a percentage of the subscriber franchise revenue. He said that the city should consider a 15-year franchise period as anything less than that could result in some good franchise companies refusing to bid.

A letter was read from Marcus Cable TV Corp. expressing an interest in serving the city and this together with a request from Fox Cities Communications was referred to the Telcom people for study.

Strad will conduct another meeting at 6:30 tonight in the city hall with officials from Kimberly, Combined Locks and Little Chute invited to participate.

Police & Fire

Appleton firemen were called to the apartment of Abdul Quasim, 8 Newberry Court, to extinguish a smoldering rug about 5:50 p.m. Monday.

Firemen said the tenant had been heating tacos in an oven when they started to burn. He apparently attempted to use the rug to smother the fire, and in the process, the rug caught fire.

The rug was carried outside, but thick smoke remained in the apartment.

MENASHA — Redevelopment was obviously the only thing on Tuesday's ballot that Menasha voters want anything to do with.

Amidst the resounding "no" vote on consolidation, sale of the Menasha utility and a four-year mayoral term, was a healthy "yes" vote on a $400,000 bond issue to help support a downtown shopping mall.

Voters said yes on redevelopment by about a two to one margin Tuesday with 2,497 ballots cast in favor of the bond issue versus 1,568 against. The issue won in all wards by healthy margins, at least 100 votes, except in the Fifth Ward where "no" votes were outnumbered by only 77 favorable ballots. The issue found most support in the Sixth Ward where "yes" votes outnumbered the opposition by 222.

Reaction to the outcome is positive, particularly on the part of the developer, Rauenhorst Corp., Minneapolis. Bruce Peterson, the executive most closely tied to the project, said this morning "we're delighted." Peterson, who learned of the results at about 10 p.m. Tuesday, said he was very pleased at the outcome, especially in light of the fact that other issues on the ballot were defeated so overwhelmingly.

Peterson said it wouldn't have been unlikely that voters' negative feelings toward consolidation would have influenced the issue of redevelopment. But he's pleased that wasn't the case.

The redevelopment project, estimated to cost nearly $2 million, will get off the ground now. According to Peterson, as soon as the city receives an approval from the Department of Local Affairs and Development on its plan for land acquisition and relocation, Rauenhorst and the Menasha Redevelopment Authority will begin contract negotiations. That contract will outline the costs both parties will pay and other legal details of the project.

Cost of the project to taxpayers could amount to over $550,000. The difference between the $400,000 bond issue and the actual cost of the project may be made up by using revenue sharing funds and by charging such things as sewer work and curbing into the regular city budget, according to Mayor James Adams.

"I think it's great, tremendous," was Adams' reaction to the outcome today. "Now we can get down to work," he said. Adams felt much the same as Peterson did, that passage of the redevelopment question was especially significant in the light of defeat of other issues. Since redevelopment was the only issue that passed, Adams said people "must have thought about it." Even though the vote was not a majority vote, Adams said the way other issues were defeated makes response on the redevelopment issue "even stronger."

MRA head Elmer Becher, said, "it's terrific" when he learned the results about an hour after polls closed last night. A 4:30 p.m. meeting of the MRA had been scheduled today, "either to pay our bills," Becher said, or to move ahead with planning. With the vote of confidence from the citizenry, the meeting this afternoon will be positive. Becher said the MRA can now "get down to serious business" in firming up plans and working out fine points of the contract with Rauenhorst.

Fifth Ward Ald. Hugh Geibel, had expressed some dissatisfaction with the redevelopment plan, not because he opposed the concept, but because he objected to the possible use of revenue sharing funds for the project.

Today, Geibel again said he approves of the idea and is happy with the voters' response. But he also reiterated his opposition to using revenue sharing funds and said he will continue to fight that on the council floor. He said he would approve of a larger bond issue for the project, allowing for a "pay as you use" plan for the younger people in the community.

Recycling plan elicits little board enthusiasm

Plans for a state-controlled solid waste recycling program received a less than enthusiastic reception this morning, at least from the segment of the Outagamie County Board which expressed opinions.

Archie Paul, retired president of the Allen Bradley Co. and vice chairman of the Governor's Task Force on Recycling, told the county board he felt the proposed state program was a good one.

Paul had requested to appear before the board after opposition to the program developed in Fond du Lac and Winnebago counties, who, together with Outagamie County would form the initial region in the recycling plan.

The task force bill is scheduled to come before the state Assembly for a vote on Thursday.

County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt, expressing the feeling of a number of supervisors, complained "we have spent two frustrating years of Preliminary plans for the project call for a food market on the western edge of the complex, bordering Tayco and Chute Streets and a large drug store on the east end. Other mall stores would total some 26,000 square feet. Though Rauenhorst has contacted some potential tenants, they've not entered into any agreements. Peterson said there has been good retailer interest but no firm action has been taken and won't be until the agreement with the city has been settled.

political fighting locally to develop our program. We're now reaching the point of accomplishing our goal and now the state wants to take it over."

Passage of the bill, DeLaHunt said, will take away any local plans.

Paul answered that "only one minute of your effort will be wasted by the state."

The aim of the proposed legislation, he said, is to "recover our basic materials rather than bury them in the ground." But, he added, sufficient volume of recycled material is needed to get industry interested in buying the material.

He predicted that the state program, if passed, "will add 1,000 jobs in the state over the next three years." He also said the county's shredder would fit into the program with the state either buying it from the county or leasing it. "Certainly you people are on the right track," he told the board.

Good, better, best. It's good to serve fish fillets these days of high food costs. There are dozens of delicious ways to prepare fillets. It's better, however, to buy dressed fillets of whiting, for instance, and fillet the fish at home. Best of all is to cook the fish backbone and all. In the picture at the left, the fillets at the top are flanked with the tailed bone that has just been cut away. As shown here, some meat always will cling to the bone when fish is filleted raw. The fish on the plate was cooked with the bone in. The backbone literally is a skeleton, easily taken out of the cooked fish with care, leaving no waste whatsoever.

When fish is cooked with wine and seedless white grapes the dish is called Veronique by the French. When cape whiting is cooked this way, as above, it is called good by everyone who eats it. In this case, the whiting goes directly from the freezer into the pan and into the oven to be poached. The only preparation necessary is to cut away the fins and the tail. The single backbone is removed by the diner at the table.

CAPE WHITING VERONIQUE

2 pkgs. (1-1/2 lbs. each) dressed South African cape whiting
1 cup white wine
1 onion, cut into slices
1 tablespoon whole pickling spice
1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed chicken broth
1/4 cup butter
1/3 cup flour
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
Salt and pepper
2 cups stemmed seedless grapes

With kitchen scissors cut off tail and fins of frozen cape whiting. Place fish into a shallow baking pan side by side in a single layer. Add wine, onion, spice and broth. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes or until completely cooked. Keep fish warm. Strain pan juices into a saucepan and boil until you have 2 cups. Mix butter and flour into a paste and drop into hot broth. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Whip cream and fold into thickened sauce. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Fold in grapes and spoon over fish. Serve with asparagus spears. Recipe makes eight servings.

BROILED WHITING

2 pounds dressed South African cape whiting
Salt
Pepper
Juice of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Thaw whiting and pat dry. Remove fins and tail with kitchen scissors. Split fish lengthwise and place in well greased broiler pan, skin-side down. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, lemon juice, parsley and melted butter or margarine. Place broiler pan 3 inches from heat. Broil until fish flakes easily with point of knife about 8 to 12 minutes. Serve with Blue Cheese Sauce.

BLUE CHEESE SAUCE

1/2 cup softened butter
1/4 cup blue cheese, crumbled
Combine butter and blue cheese. Beat until well blended, light and fluffy.

Serve at table, to be spread to taste on broiled cape whiting.

BAKED FISH, BARBECUE STYLE

1/3 cup chopped onion
1/3 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1/4 cup prepared yellow mustard
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1-1/2 pounds fish fillets

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In small saucepan, cook onion and celery in butter or margarine until lightly browned. Stir in tomato sauce, mustard, and brown sugar. Arrange fish in shallow ungreased baking dish. Spoon sauce over fish. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, until fish flakes easily when pierced with a fork. Recipe makes four or five servings.

FISH SCALLOP

1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1/4 cup margarine, cooking oil, or bacon drippings
2 tablespoons flour
1-1/2 teaspoons onion salt
2 cups milk

2 cups sliced cooked fresh or canned potatoes
1 pkg. frozen peas and carrots, thawed
3/4 cup coarsely crushed soda crackers

Thaw frozen fish; cut into 1-inch pieces. Spread pieces evenly over bottom of shallow 1-1/2 quart rectangular casserole. Heat 2 tablespoons margarine, oil, or drippings in saucepan; stir in flour and onion salt. Add milk; cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Fold in vegetables; heat thoroughly. Pour over fish; stir carefully. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons margarine, oil, or drippings; stir in cracker crumbs. Spoon around edge of casserole. Bake in 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until hot and bubbly and fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Recipe makes four servings.

BAKED FISH MEXICANA

1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 envelope Chili-O-Seasoning Mix
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
1-1/2 pounds fish fillets
Butter or margarine
Combine sour cream bread crumbs, celery, contents of chili-o-mix envelope and parsley flakes. Arrange half the fish in a lightly greased baking dish and spread with half the crumb mixture. Repeat layers; dot with butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when pierced with a fork. Recipe makes four to six servings.

CRUSTY FISH FILLETS

2 pounds fish fillets
1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup buttermilk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup olive oil

Cut fish into serving piece sizes. Combine cornmeal and flour in shallow pan. Pour buttermilk into bowl. Dip each piece of fish in buttermilk; drain. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Dip into cornmeal mixture to coat lightly on both sides. In skillet, brown fish in olive oil over medium heat until golden on both sides, and when it flakes easily with fork, about 6 or 7 minutes. Drain on paper towels. Serve with Tangy Fish Sauce. Recipe makes four to six servings.

TANGY FISH SAUCE

1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons buttermilk
1/4 cup sliced ripe olives
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
Combine all ingredients; let stand at least 30 minutes to blend flavors.

Greiners celebrate anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Greiner, route 5, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Monday with a family dinner at the Eagles' Club and a reception at Beaver Hills. They were married Oct. 9, 1923 at Freedom.

Mr. Greiner operated Greiner Cheese Factory until 1956. He retired as part time bookkeeper for Herpas Dairy in 1972.

The couple has six children, Mrs. William Goring, Carl Greiner, Ronald Greiner, Robert Greiner and James Greiner, Freedom, and William Greiner of Kaukauna.

They also have 29 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Couple marks anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paulus, 1002 N. Appleton St., marked their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday for families, relatives and friends at the Eagles' Hall. The couple was married Oct. 9, 1923 in Green Bay. Mr. Paulus was employed at the Kimberly Clark Mills at Kimberly for 21 years, owned an Appleton tavern four years, and was employed at Valley Iron Works until his retirement in 1960.

The couple has three children, Donald Paulus, Mrs. William Kuehl, and Mrs. Duane Wheaton, all of Appleton. There are 13 grandchildren.

Home ec coordinators hold 2-day meeting

Home economics coordinators have been meeting for two days at Fox Valley Technical Institute to discuss everything from their roles and responsibilities to state legislation affecting VTAE.

After Tuesday's welcome by Mrs. Marilyn Loberg, the group heard from George Kinsler, William Sirek and Libby Rosandick on varying views of the educational system.

During the afternoon session, Sherman Ansell's report on "University System - VTAE Missions," was presented. Other speakers included Clifford Zenor, Gladys Olson, Nannette Hoppe, Virginia Atkins, Phyllis Jellch, Christine Nickel and Helen Scheve.

"National and State Legislative Influences and Predictions for VTAE" was the topic of dinner speaker, Eugene Lehrmann, state director.

Wednesday's session was kicked off by Jack Smythe on program development and full-time programs.

Part-time education was discussed by Scheve and Nickel while Carol Anderson and Scheve handled "State-Wide Food Service Curriculum Project."

The two-day program concluded at 3 p.m. after an evaluation by Lois Farnsworth, Barbara Walter and Toni Pontar.

Washing power

In 1948, Whirlpool Corp. introduced its first version of the automatic washing machine. This product had a well-designed mechanism which did an adequate job of washing and water extraction. Today, 25 years later, Whirlpool celebrates its silver anniversary of the debut of this product.

It is interesting to note that even with additional features, the automatic washer costs less than it did 25 years ago.

Speaker encourages participation

"Why Women Enter Politics" was the topic discussed by Helen Kachinsky, coordinator of Fox Valley Women's Political Caucus, in a presentation before the College Republican Club at Lawrence University Thursday evening.

Kachinsky explained that she sees the Women's Movement as a conscience-raising effort, which, to be effective, will "sift" women through a period of decision making, each choosing a particular phase of the Women's Movement.

She listed NOW, the League of Women Voters and Women's Political Caucus as groups through which women will become increasingly effective.

"For most of the goals of the Women's Movement to be reached, political activity, and in particular, running for office, is a must," she contended. "It is in the running for office that WPC focuses on and strives to accomplish."

This objective, according to Kachinsky, is accomplished by offering to assist candidates and prospective candidates through encouragement and through the sponsorship of workshops such as those proposed for the state convention scheduled next spring in Appleton.

Being effective in politics means getting legislation passed, said the speaker. "However, there remains the task of implementation of the laws, which will revert to the women who worked to bring them about. This means standing up when necessary and being heard as a supporter of the equality she will be entitled to under the law."

Kachinsky related that since becoming involved in WPC, she has become acquainted with dynamic women from around the state. She then extended an invitation to those present to investigate the group and consider membership in it, explaining that the organization is open to both men and women.

In a fund raising effort, members of WPC will staff a beer tent at Pierce Park Carnival during Applefest. Scott Faulkner, head of the Lawrence University Republican group, offered to solicit workers from among the student body.

Gifts no sign of caring

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a sister who has nine Ladies' Ready-To-Wear stores and never sends her nieces anything, ever? We don't need anything, thank God, but it would be nice if our teen-age daughters received a dress or a skirt now and then, something so the girls would know their aunt thinks about them once in a while. For our silver wedding anniversary my sister phoned her "best wishes." (No present.) Last Christmas she sent four cans of fancy olives. I try not to be bitter or resentful, but when I think of her sins of omission, it hurts. I'd like to see your answer in print. — Oak Park Heartache

Dear Oak: Here's my answer, but when you see it in print I don't think you'll like it. Your notion that a gift is proof of caring is a crock of cranberries. The best gift of all is the gift of concern, consideration and thoughtfulness — something that represents personal sacrifice, like time from a busy person, or a hand-made present that required imagination and effort. Your attitude needs overhauling, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is sparked by "Anonymous Lady" who said she got "absolutely nothing" out of sex with her beloved husband. She was told by her doctor, "There are no frigid women, only incompetent men." And so she had an affair with her doctor. (Too bad she didn't let us in on how that worked out.)

I am in my late 70s and have had a life you wouldn't believe. Sex with my late beloved husband meant absolutely nothing to me, either. I consulted a woman doctor because in those days you never talked to a man about such things. She said my husband must be at fault. I thought I had been short-changed and went to bed with a gentleman I'd been flirting with for several years. It was no better with him. I had several affairs after that and not one of them approximated the ecstasy I had read about in books.

I've concluded that sex is greatly overrated. The anticipation is unquestionably more exciting than the realization. So please, Ann, tell the men out there who aren't satisfying their wives not to worry. There is probably nothing wrong with them. Other men's wives may be better actresses.—Mrs. Zero

Dear Zero: Your theory doesn't hold up, dearie—too much evidence to the contrary. The spectacular, earth-shaking, history-changing, mind-bending events that have resulted from the chemistry between man and woman suggest something beyond "faking it." Too bad you've never hit the psychedelic jackpot, but others have.

Dear Ann Landers: I've tried to find an answer to my problem in books, but it's not there. I'm a happily married woman with a fine job. I do not feel self-conscious and I'm not a prude, but I'm an inveterate blusher. People often notice my blushing and ask, "Why are you embarrassed? You're blushing!" Then I become really uncomfortable and turn five shades redder.

Is there anything I can do to control this? It's humiliating and I'd give anything to overcome it. Thanks, Ann. —Too Old For Such Nonsense In Lubbock
Dear Lub: Blushing is an involuntary act. I know of no way to control it, so my advice is enjoy it. So few girls can blush these days that it's downright refreshing to see one who can.

Most of the time you just sit and suffer

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

What can you do when your opponent's evident line of play is going to succeed? Much of the time you can do nothing but sit and suffer. Surprisingly often, however, you can try to throw declarer off the track. It costs nothing to try.

West opened the three of spades, and East won with the king. East returned the eight of spades to dummy's ace.

Now South was in trouble. He needed three diamonds for his contract, and dummy was quite short of entries.

After some thought, South got to his hand with the ace of clubs and led the nine of diamonds. It was a good plan. South intended to let the nine ride for a finesse if West played low. He intended to let West hold the trick if he played the jack.

FAST FALSECARD

West confused South by producing a fast falsecard. He played the king of diamonds on South's nine!

This wouldn't have worked if West had pondered over his play. Since West made his play quickly, the king looked like a singleton.

Now South's only chance to get three diamond tricks was to win with dummy's ace and finesse the diamond return through East's supposed jack. South did this, and West calmly took the jack of diamonds. South was limited to two diamond tricks, and the game contract was defeated.

If you decide to try this king play, it will seldom cost you anything. But if your partner has the singleton queen, your deceptive play will boomerang.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S- J 9 6 3 2 H- Q 4 D- K J 3 C- 10 7 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. This is a weak hand despite the trump length, and you can afford only a weak response. The jump to four spades should be based on trump length combined with a singleton or void suit on the side.

Who buys compacts?

Who buys those hundreds of thousands of compact washers and dryers that roll off production lines every year?

The typical purchaser may be a single woman living alone; newlyweds in their first apartment; empty-nesters who live in a mobile home, or a military family that moves frequently.

Research by Sears, Roebuck and Co. shows that only 23 per cent of the buyers of compact laundry appliances own their own homes. Of the rest, 37 per cent live in rented apartments, 25 per cent in mobile homes, and 15 per cent in rented houses. That means they also are apt to move frequently.

But all of those people do have some things in common. They want and need clean clothes, but they either don't need big machines, don't have the space for them, or like to avoid incurring installation charges every time they move.

In addition, these people have special requirements. Laundry appliances must be small enough to be stored in an out-of-the-way corner or in a closet when not in use. However, 70 per cent of them are kept in the kitchen (the bath is the second most popular location) so they also must be attractive enough to stand daily scrutiny.

A compact washer must roll easily to a sink where it is used, but the homemaker doesn't want it "walking" all over the kitchen while it is operating.

Like everyone else, compact families need wash and dry cycles to pamper all types of clothing and linens. And they need a selection of dryers that operate on different types of fuel.

Maid of honor Karen de Young was assisted by Kathy Van Daalwyk, Mary Jo Stoeger and Nancy Willer, bridesmaids.

Keith Gehring was best man. Completing the bridal party were Dave Van Daalwyk, Patrick Van Daalwyk and Mark de Young.

The former Miss Brown is employed by Integrity Mutual. Her husband, who has an associate degree in accounting from Fox Valley Technical Institute, is with Jenkel Oil, Appleton.

Carstens-Koleske

Married Saturday at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church were Cathy A. Carstens and Timothy J. Koleske.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Danley, route 2, Black Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koleske, route 1, Hortonville.

Maid of honor, Sharon Koleske, Hortonville, was accompanied by Marlene Altergott and Joan Stadler.

Assisting best man, Jerome Koleske, Hortonville, were Roger Steinbach, Richard Conrad, Gregory Koleske and Earl Schimmelpfening. Junior attendant was Kevin Danley.

The new Mrs. Koleske is employed by Marc's Big Boy. Her husband is with Tri-City Concrete.

Krautkramer-Nabbefeld

Anne L. Krautkramer and Michael J. Nabbefeld were married Saturday during services at St. Bernard Catholic Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. George Krautkramer, 223 S. Memorial Drive, and the late Mr. Krautkramer. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George Nabbefeld, 924 E. Lindbergh St.

Honor attendants Mrs. Wayne Surbeck, North Hollywood, Calif., and Dave Nabbefeld, Readfield, were accompanied by John Sipple and Greg Schuh.

The former Miss Krautkramer attended the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Her husband, a UW-Milwaukee graduate, is with Industrial Nucleonics in Columbus, Ohio where they will reside.

Bus still the only answer

Remember the old days when you used to park your car in the suburbs and take a bus downtown to shop?

What a hassle. Parking your car in a towaway zone. Running for a bus and missing it. Waiting for another in the cold (rain, heat, wind). Never having the right change for the driver.

All that has changed now. We have convenient shopping centers that have grown with the demand. In fact, we have one near us so big it has its own form of government.

In an effort to conserve gas the other day, four of us decided to take one car to the shopping center to buy groceries.

For laughs, we cruised around the parking lanes closest to the stores knowing full well that in order to get a parking place that close you have to (a) abandon your car on the site while the shopping center is being built (b) be there when one of the owners dies and his car is impounded.

The second lane was equally filled as was the third. We continued to make laps and cruise dangerously close to little old ladies who were crawling on their knees from exhaustion.

Maxine broke out the sandwiches for lunch as we were all getting rather testy. (Mildred was making obscene gestures to each foreign car that was taking up a full space.)

By mid-afternoon, the stores were barely visible to the naked eye when we spotted it. A parking place. The only hitch was someone had left a shopping cart smack in the middle of it. Wanda volunteered to move the cart. As she did so, a car from nowhere zoomed in nearly knocking her down. Maxine had to be restrained, but in talking with the occupants, we discovered the poor devils had been cruising so long in search of a parking place their radio batteries had given out. They expressed joy at hearing about the end of the war, shock over Watergate, and dismay at Phase IV.

Mildred volunteered to drive in the late afternoon as I was suffering from hysterical exhaustion. (At one point they tell me I stopped the car, assaulted a woman with grocery bags on her back seat and demanded, "You tell me where you came from or I'll break your face.")

It was around six when Mildred spotted a parking place and slid into it easily. We all breathed a sigh of relief.

"Okay," she instructed. "Lock the doors as you leave and someone check the street to see where we are parked so we can find it." "That's easy," I said. "We are smack in the middle of downtown."

We ran for a bus to the shopping center and missed it. No one seemed surprised. (Copyright 1973)

Food ideas for using canned peaches

The 1973 crop of canned cling peaches is in good supply and continues to be well priced. There are many ways to use this delicious fruit which provides variety to salads, desserts and even makes an excellent garnish for meats. Here are a few suggestions:

Cling peach slices drizzled with Italian dressing make a perfect low calorie topping for cottage cheese. No mayonnaise is needed.

For a refreshing ice, freeze apricot nectar and canned fruit cocktail in ice cube trays. When the right consistency, spoon into dessert dishes.

Drained fruit cocktail or peaches with just a drip of mint extract makes an easy but delectable topping for cake. It looks especially well on single layer cakes.

Burlington "Champagne" Panty Hose

Reg. $6 Each

What CHAMPAGNE does for your legs will go to your head. Indeed, CHAMPAGNE'S incomparable sheerness and perfect fit (in 4 sizes) alone could convince many women. But there's more to CHAMPAGNE: stretch and shape retention qualities for more comfort, up to 6 times greater snag resistance (which makes CHAMPAGNE the longest wearing sheer pantyhose ever) and stimulating lift to relieve leg fatigue. And that's why CHAMPAGNE is the pantyhose for every woman. The pantyhose created after two years research with Monsanto's amazing new body yarn called Monvelle® (50% spandex and 50% nylon.) In Toast-Me Tan, Bubbling Beige, Party Pale, Brut Black and Tingly Taupe.

The ailing house Chipping concrete hard work

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
Raymond O. Fatig, Newark, Ohio, says trying to chip concrete is too much work. This is the reference to the man who found a one-inch-high concrete platform on his basement floor when he removed his old coal furnace for an oil burner and wanted to take out that platform. As follows:
"I had the same problem: Chipping with a cold chisel was just too difficult. I finally had to break the whole area with a sledge hammer (as you might find it necessary) and put in new concrete. I did this 11 years ago and you can hardly tell where the old furnace was."

Q: Our home is brick lower, frame upper story, with aluminum combination storms and screens. Flies, wasps, mosquitoes, etc., get in between and work into the bedroom and bath, even when the inside windows are locked. How is this possible? How do I stop it? — Des Plaines, Ill.

A: Perhaps insects you may see between the combinations aren't the ones which actually enter. If the weather-stripping is snug, I don't see how they could get in. But perhaps faulty, cracked or missing caulking around the outside of the frames (where the window units fit into the siding) have gaps big enough. Worth a careful examination. Could be that closing all around these frames with new caulking might shut them out.

Q: I have four glass block windows. The house is 18 years old and the cement between blocks and around the edges on the outside is now black. Some is falling out. I know I must scrape out all the black and loose material. But what do I put in to replace it? — Chicago.

A: You're exactly right about scraping out all that's loose. Fill with glass block cement, available at any lumber yard. Tell the man where you'll be using it. If you don't have a putty knife, get one at the same time.

Q: The bathroom in our summer home is tiny — 4 1/2 feet by 6 1/2. Toilet and sink are on an inside wall, no room for a shower. But if we could put the toilet tank on the outside, we could install a 30-by-32-inch shower. Is this possible? — Milwaukee.

A: No reason why not. Our only problem will be remembering to shut off the water and flush the tank if there's any chance of a freeze.

This always reminds me of my disbelief when I first heard why so many English homes have all the water pipes running up the outside, rather than inside, where it's warm. Because if the pipes freeze, it's easier to get at them.

Q: We have had water in our basement and would like to know the best product to use to waterproof it. Walls and floor are poured concrete, have never been painted. — Columbus.

A: Seepage through walls can be checked with a heavy-bodied cement base paint which penetrates into and forms a waterproof shield in the concrete. Several types sold. One good brand: "Tite," made by Muralo Co., 148 5th Ave., Bayonne, N.J. 07002. Another type is transparent liquid waterproofing, such as "Thoro-Seal," made by Standard Drv Wall Products, New Eagle, Pa. 15067. Open leaks can be cured by "Water Plug," made by the same firm. Seepage through floor best cured with waterproofing layer of roofing cement or heavy plastic sheeting, then another layer of concrete. (Copyright, 1973)

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

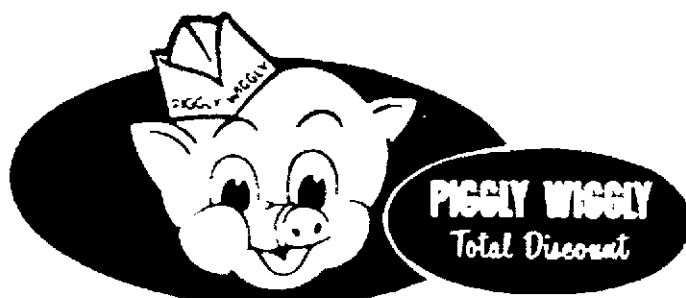

Gentle rubbing not harmful to the eyes

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I read that rubbing one's eyes can cause serious damage. Is this true? I find myself unconsciously rubbing my eyes often during the day.

I recently had glasses prescribed but I still get headaches starting behind my eyes. Also they burn and water when I go outdoors. And what about dark circles? Could that be from too much rubbing? —A.H.

For answers, read Thosteson's booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy, write to him in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use ZIP code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Solons, regents feud on campus missions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A budding feud between the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents and members of the state legislature was fueled Tuesday by the Assembly's Education Committee.

The committee, against the strong objections of its chairman Rep. Herbert Grover, D-Shawano, held up the bill that would complete the merger operation of the two university systems by adding an amendment that would restrict the regents from discontinuing any graduate programs without legislative approval.

"These people don't know the difference between educational institutions and penal institutions," Grover said after the meeting, referring to the committee members. "This is the most irresponsible action that the committee has taken since I've been here."

After tacking on the amendment, which had been submitted by Rep. James Azim, R-Muskegon, the committee voted 6-2 to table the bill. It means that the bill will most likely not come to the Assembly floor until after the current mission statement issue is settled.

Actually, it was the Regents' plan to rewrite campus mission and thereby trim some graduate programs that caused the committee debate. Those supporting Azim's amendment represented campuses that were not

Unemployment pay changes advanced

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill which would make major changes in the state's unemployment compensation law gained headway in the Wisconsin Assembly over protests from employers and local governments.

The house voted 37-62 against killing the proposal and, after rejecting a number of amendments, recessed debate until today.

The bill would bring public school employees and municipal workers under the state unemployment compensation law.

It would eliminate the one-week waiting period for jobless persons who want benefits.

It would make a major change in the law's refusal to authorize benefits for persons out of work because of someone else's strikes.

The Assembly adopted 54-45 an amendment which would deny compensation only to workers voluntarily taking part in strikes.

The Wisconsin Manufacturers Association has said the bill would cost employers about $52 million through 1975, including $13 million because of the loss of the one-week waiting period.

The League of Wisconsin Municipalities said that bringing local public employees under the law would cost municipalities about $9 million in the current biennium.

The bill was requested by the United Auto Workers, whose representative has been the a holdout in an attempt by the state Unemployment Compensation Advisory Council to author a new benefit law backed by labor and management.

The manufacturers association said the UAW proposal would destroy the advisory council, which for more than 30 years has been in charge of finding labor-management agreement on periodic changes to the compensation law.

The concern was echoed by a number of Republicans who urged the Assembly to wait action by the advisory council.

"You piously come in here and say we can't do anything for the working people because it has not been agreed upon," Majority Leader Anthony Earl, D-Wausau, said.

"Some people are using that argument as a justification to do nothing for the working people this session," Earl said.

Rep. Eugene Dorff, D-Kenosha, said industry received $355 million in new tax benefits under Wisconsin's 1973-74 budget.

"Now they want $50 million in addition to what they got and they want to take it out of the working man's pocket," Dorff said.

Minority Leader John Shabaz, R-New Berlin, said compensation for workers during strikes would cost employers about $22 million.

He called it "$22 million to promote labor unrest."

Other changes in the bill would bring more low-income workers under the law, and raise the maximum benefit rate from 60 per cent to 66 2-3 per cent of the state average weekly wage.

It would lower from 18 to 17 weeks the amount of time a person must be employed before being eligible for benefits.

Cranberry firm named in DNR suit

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A Delaware cranberry firm was charged with failing to comply with state regulations in connection with an abandoned solid waste disposal site, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren said Monday.

In the complaint filed in Wood County Circuit Court, Warren contended that Ocean Spray Cranberries Inc. failed to replace 40,000 plant new vegetation at the site.

The complaint asks a court order requiring Ocean Sp. to comply with a Department of Natural Resources order, and asks for up to $5,000 in fines for each day the firm was in violation. The order was issued Dec. 11, 1972.

Noncontroversial bills pass Senate

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The state Senate, with a logjam of bills on its legislative calendar, worked Tuesday to clear away some noncontroversial items.

A bill proposing a rustic-roads law was sent 22-4 to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey. It would allow use of specified roads for exclusive use by pedestrians, bicycles and other qualified vehicles.

Passed on voice votes were measures barring unauthorized alteration of Wisconsin drivers' licenses, and exempting prisoners of war from the state income tax.

Also approved was a measure requiring safety glass in public and private buildings where chance of injury from broken glass great.

The Senate confirmed the appointments of Ethan Kochendorfer of Fountain City to the Minnesota-Wisconsin Boundary Commission, Vivian Munson of La Crosse to the Board of Veterans Affairs and Vernon Woodward of Madison to the Athletic Examining Board.

GAO claims Army violated its spending limits for personnel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army violated its spending authority for personnel costs, including clothing and subsistence pay for GIs in Indochina, by $104.5 million in 1970, according to the General Accounting Office.

The Army says it's not so. Instead, said a spokesman, the disputed funds were shifted between 1970 and 1971 accounts in keeping with a longstanding bookkeeping practice.

The GAO report, issued Sunday, insisted that federal law requires that funds be credited only against the year for which they were allocated.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said the report showed the Army had "scandalously ignored both the directives of Congress and the administration."

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—Sen. Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, prorated by a letter from Winnebago County Judge James G. Sarres, accused Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of "slipping in the back door" a provision of the state budget that restricts the power of juvenile court judges to determine delinquency.

Steinhilber, assistant majority leader of the Senate, called the provision "another one of those policy hooks" and called on his fellow legislators to repeal the action.

Sanger Powers, administrator for the Division of Corrections, sent a memorandum to all Juvenile Court Judges last week informing them of the law change.

The 1973-75 state budget eliminated a portion of the statutes that included the violation of a court order for supervision as a basis for delinquency.

"In the past," Powers said Tuesday, "a juvenile could be placed on probation or sent to the School for Boys if he violated the conditions of the supervision order. Now, the judge can only call him into court and reprimand him."

The juvenile issue is the second court-related item in the budget to cause some controversy and both times it was a memorandum from Powers that initiated debate. Last month, Powers mailed a memorandum to state judges informing them of an "instant parole" segment in the budget.

"This is a regular procedure," Powers insisted. "I am certain that most judges in the state weren't even aware of it. We had to let them know."

Judge Sarres, in his letter to Steinhilber, said the removal of the supervision order violation as a basis for delinquency "just takes away the power of the judge to do anything constructive to curtail youngsters who break the rules."

"In other words," Judge Sarres added, "a person who is found to be in need of supervision and breaks his rules . . . the court can't do anything to him. The only thing we can do is to bring him back to court and warn him. This makes the court very ineffective."

Steinhilber criticized the governor for including the amendment in the budget but agreed that the issue never received thorough consideration on the debating floor. He recommended that the Joint Finance Committee, which now includes eight Democrats and six Republicans, be evenly split between the parties to ensure closer scrutiny.

FARM BREAD

The way it used to be. Here's a new bread made the way farm wives used to make it years ago. With the same natural ingredients. Unbleached white flour. Wheat germ. Milk. Wheat farina (a cereal grain they used to call flour middlins). A dab of potatoes for extra body and moisture. And real wildflower honey — the kind you find in old trees rather than stores. The result is a closely-textured white loaf with a hearty natural flavor. And a lot of natural nutrition. It makes a sandwich into a satisfying meal.

Hug for hero

Oakland A's owner Charles Finley hugs Campy Campaneris after the shortstop hit an 11th inning homer Tuesday for a 2-1 victory over Baltimore in the third game of the American League playoff. (AP Wirephoto)

A's in lead

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris, the 155-pounder dubbed "Baby Ruth" after home runs in two straight games, predicts the A's will win their way into the World Series again today.

"I don't care who's pitching, we'll win," declared the explosive little infielder whose 11th inning leadoff home run beat Baltimore 2-1 Tuesday and gave Oakland a 2-1 edge in the American League playoffs.

The defending world champions will represent the American League a second straight year if they beat the Orioles' ace right-hander, Jim Palmer, today. He shut them out 6-0 in the opener of the best-of-five playoff series.

Oakland left-hander Vida Blue didn't last through the first inning in that one but he'll be back facing the Orioles again.

"We have a well-rested Blue who has shown he can pitch well against anybody," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams. "Certainly we have a chance against Palmer."

Campaneris hit only four home runs during the regular season but he led off the second game of the championship series with a homer and ended the third game with one. That provided the pitching victory to southpaw Ken Holtzman, who threw a three-hitter.

Campaneris, who was suspended the first three games of last year's playoffs when he threw his bat at a rival pitcher, said he hit a slider, low and inside, for his game-winning homer.

"I wanted to throw it further inside," commented a disappointed Mike Cuellar who had allowed only three hits before Campy's homer.

The A's victory put all the pressure on Baltimore and Palmer.

"We have our backs to the wall," admitted the hurler who won 22 games and lost nine on the season. "If I don't pitch well and we lose, we're eliminated. I'll try to pitch the same way I did in Baltimore."

Earl Williams got Baltimore off to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when he slammed a Holtzman fast ball over the left field fence, the Orioles' first homer of the series.

Holtzman then retired 14 batters in order before walking Tommy Davis in the seventh.

Oakland didn't score until the eighth, when Manager Williams' strategy paid off.

He sent Jesus Alou up to hit for catcher Ray Fosse and Alou golfed a bloop into left field for a single. Fleer Allan Lewis went in to run for Alou.

Williams had selected Angel Mangual originally as the pinch hitter for second baseman Dick Green but, with a bunt the obvious play, he switched and used Mike Andrews.

The bunt went to Cuellar, who was off balance when he fielded it. So he threw to first — the sacrifice working. Campaneris struck out but Joe Rudi banged a broken-bat single off his fists to score Lewis from second.

Rose enjoys last laugh

NEW YORK (AP) — They threw an apple, a tennis ball and an egg at Pete Rose, but the only flying object he cared about was a baseball.

Rose hit it over the fence for a home run in the 12th inning to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets and tie the National League playoffs at two games apiece.

"I wasn't thinking about a home run. I must confess, but I wanted to hit that ball all the way to the airport," said Rose, who apparently felt he struck a blow back at the Mets' fans for their animosity toward him.

Rose had been the object of scorn here ever since his fight with New York shortstop Bud Harrelson, a scuffle that triggered a full-scale melee during Monday's bizarre game.

"Sure, I heard them booing at me every time I showed my face," said Rose. "They kept throwing things at me, too. But that only makes me play harder."

Cast as the villain, Rose heard the boos once more as he stepped to the plate in the top of the 12th inning to face New York reliever Harry Parker.

Someone threw an apple at Rose, but he brushed it aside with his bat, looking darkly toward the stands. Then came the tennis ball and the egg.

It was reminiscent of Monday's affair when Rose was showered by pop bottles, beer cans, batteries and a whiskey bottle in left field. The garbage shower took place after the Rose-Harrelson fight and the resulting battle royal.

The fans remembered Monday's in famous "Rose-Bud Incident" and continually hissed the Cincinnati left fielder before he pumped Parker's 2-2 fastball out of sight over the right field fence.

Then the 50,786 fans were dramatically silent, for the most part, as Rose circled the bases with his right hand held high in a clenched-fist gesture of victory.

Rose singled twice and walked before smashing his second homer of the this five-game series.

Until Rose's winning hit, the fourth game of the National League playoffs was full of other pulsating drama. The Mets had taken a 1-0 lead in the third inning on Felix Millan's run-scoring single and George Stone protected that slim advantage until the seventh. At that point, Tony Perez slugged a home run, his first hit in 15 at-bats in this series, to tie the score at 1-1. After Stone walked, Andy Kosco with two out, Tug McGraw came on the scene and pitched scoreless relief through the 11th inning.

Hunter improves aerial accuracy

By LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — A year ago at this point, Scott Hunter was having percentage problems.

Then a Packers sophomore, the ever-confident quarterback was struggling under the burden of an anemic 41.1 success ratio after four games of the 1972 season.

And that unimposing figure included a 15-for-30 day against the Bears in Game Four that contributed a medium of respectability.

But things have changed. Today, Hunter finds himself among the National Football League's most precise marksmen at the identical point. The effervescent Alabamian will carry a glossy 55.3 passing percentage into Sunday's Milwaukee County Stadium match with the Kansas City Chiefs, based on 21 completions in 38 attempts for 307 yards and one touchdown.

The explanation?

"I think you have to explain it by saying that, after three years in the NFL, you begin to find that secondary receiver, to find the open man," says Scott, who regained starting status with a superlative second-half rescue mission in Sunday's 16-14 victory over the New York Giants.

"You learn what passes you can hit against what coverages. In other words, things begin to fall into place after three years."

"There again, we haven't thrown the ball 30 or 35 times in a game this year, and that's the real test. But, looking back, it seemed like last year there was only one time we did throw that often — in our first game against the Bears."

"Basically, I guess it's just beginning to catch on a little bit."

Does he feel the passing game may finally have surfaced?

"I think it might be beginning to perk up a little bit," Hunter replied. "It seems like when we had to hit a pass Sunday, we were able to do it. That's not a true test, of course — the test is whether you can do it over a season."

"But it does seem like things are perkling up. The people who aren't primary receivers are getting open, which is a good sign."

In explanation of Sunday's second-half success against the Giants, Scott noted, "People were open — a couple of those calls by the coaches were good calls."

Asked if he felt the presumed revival of the passing game might evoke greater respect from opposing defenses, Hunter rejoined, "I hope they don't respect it at all because then we'll surely show some toils."

Addressing himself to the Packers' overall offensive tribulations, Hunter conceded, "Everybody's frustrated. I don't care about what has been happening to other teams around the league, but it does seem like everybody is having a little trouble on offense."

"We've just to play our ball game, though, along with our good defense and kicking game. We have to let the opposing defense dictate what we do. We can't throw the ball all over the field, we can't panic because we're not scoring three or four touchdowns."

"We have to keep playing our game — ball control."

PACKER PATTERN — Coach Dan Devine, looking ahead to the rematch with the Chiefs, described Kansas City improved over our pre-season game all the way around.

"We'll probably see more of Lennie Dawson, and a better Dawson than we saw in Kansas City in August. Defensively, in their last two games, they completely bottled up Oakland and Denver's offense was pretty much limited to two big plays."

"One of those was a fantastic run of 50 yards by Floyd Little with a screen pass and the other was a 'give' to the fullback, where they didn't block anybody, which went for 70 yards."

"The Chiefs have been very impressive the last two weeks, very impressive."

Devine also noted that Dawson has been exploiting his running backs as pass receivers of late, particularly Ed Podolak, who caught 12 passes in last Sunday's victory over the Broncos to set

Hall becomes a hitter

BY LEE REMMEL

GREEN BAY — As training camp wore on into the sultry days of August, accompanied by periodic and required reductions of the Packer roster, the ever-present railbirds began to voice grave doubts over Charlie Hall's Green Bay future.

Their dark appraisal was prompted by the presence of six other veteran defensive backs in camp, along with an exceptional rookie crop headed by Hise Austin, who is still around.

Charlie, who now appears solidly entrenched as a utility man, admits he had some serious reservations himself at the time.

"To be honest with you I didn't think I was going to be around, the way things were looking when I came to camp in July," he said, as he leisurely savored Sunday's 16-14 victory over the Giants on his day off. "But things happen. I'm surprised, though, that I made it."

Coach Dan Devine, a man who places a high premium on the yen for contact, attributes Hall's survival to increased aggressiveness. "Charlie has developed into a hitter, which is what this game is all about," he said.

Although he has looked like a new man afield, particularly during an extended free-hitting appearance against the Vikings two weeks ago, Hall himself doesn't see any substantial difference in his performance. "Maybe I'm getting a little more exposure," he said, "and maybe I'm just in the right place at the right time." As far as playing any different, I don't feel that I've changed that much.

"Possibly it's because I'm more sure of myself. I'm sort of a jack-of-all-trades back there — I play cornerback and both safeties — and player, but my role is primarily supportive, so most of the experience I get is in practice, which may be one reason why it's taken me longer to develop."

Hall, a third-round draft choice in 1971, admits that being largely an onlooker on Sunday afternoon, hasn't been easy.

"Everybody wants to play," he said, "but you have to wait for your chance. But just playing in our secondary, as great as it is, and being a part of it, is an honor in itself. I don't think there's a better secondary in the league — no better four guys than we've got right now in Al Matthews, Willie Buchanan, Kenny Ellis and Jim Hill."

"Just backing them up is an honor. But I'm not trying to hide the fact that I would like to be playing. Nobody is happy sitting on the bench."

Charlie, who spent the Giant game on inactive status because of a pinched nerve in his shoulder, is planning to be ready for Sunday's date with the Chiefs in Milwaukee. "It feels pretty good," he said, "I hope I can be back next week."

The debonair Hall, nicknamed "Gypsy" by his teammates because of a resemblance to Joe Namath in both appearance and life style, is one of the Packers' most eligible bachelors and he intends to preserve that status for the foreseeable future.

Charlie Hall

maybe it's taken me a little longer to master them. I feel more comfortable back there in all positions."

"Each one of the positions is really different. There is no difference between the cornerbacks but the difference between strong and free safety is night and day. They are two entirely different positions. I've had a chance to work at them now for two years, which helps. Of course, practicing a position and playing it in a game situation are different things."

"Having game experience will help more in the development of a

Don Brandenburg slams 690 set

Don Brandenburg thundered a 690 series to take individual honors in men's bowling in the Fox Cities area Tuesday night.

Brandenburg slammed his high count in the Super Bowl League and included games of 252 and 246 with the leading set.

Other top scores included Al Tyczkowski 232-622, Dwane Bellin 582 and Don Moore 580.

Florian Spang jolted a 246 game and Lopatynski slams 696

Joe Lopatynski had a 696 series for his first three games and a 588 for four lines in the Hahn's 3-Man Scratch League Tuesday night.

Lopatynski's high series included games of 246 and 258. Other leading totals in the Hahn's circuit included Bob Parenteau 235-833, Chuck Bayer 226-227-793, Jim Kluba 790, Bill Roock 244-775, Dave Laux 776 and Dude Hahn 766.

Viking jayvees defeat Lakeland

Lawrence University's junior varsity football team defeated Lakeland College 26-6 Monday in a game at the Lawrence Bowl.

The victory gives the jayvees a 2-1 record for the season.

Mark Mancosky scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter on an 11-yard pass from Ker Meyer. Tom Hughes kicked the PAT.

Meyer scored the second TD on a two-yard run in the first quarter. Lakeland scored its only points on a 33-yard pass in the third period.

Jim Borne retaliated with a return of a pass interception for LC's third touchdown and Mancosky capped the scoring on a five-yard pass from Earl Patterson in the fourth.

Rick Flom had three interceptions for the jayvees. Lawrence forced four fumbles and intercepted five passes during the game.

237-592, Ed Belongea 576, Bob Ross 575, Earl Swick 242 and Denny Laux 225.

Leading the Appleton Papers League at the Super Bowl Tuesday night were Tom Carew with a 231 game and Ed Isaacson with a 628 series. Carew finished with a 578 series while Frank Stephani had 600, Phil Williams 592 and Bruce Kain 575.

The Businessmen's League at Colonial Lanes, Freedom, was led by Chet LeNoble with a 236 game and 617 series. Ken Schiebe was next in line with a 585 series.

Larry Wadel hit a 242 game and 586 series while Keith Gehring had a 614 total with a 225 line to share honors in the Metropolitan Men's League at Sabre Lanes.

Carl Tiesling had a 607 series and Don Polinski hit 585 in the Sabre League last night.

John Telford's 615 series was high in the Major League at the Bowling Bar, Kaukauna. John Mayefski had a 234 game and 604 series and Tom Giordana had 585.

In the Fox Valley Bell Men's League at the Super Bowl, Don Frank was the leader with a 235 game and 581 series. Clem Rossmessl had 579, Doug Landeau 579 and Jim Coniff blasted a 246 singleton.

Stanfill sacks defense award too

MIAMI (AP) — About the only thing Miami Dolphin defensive end Bill Stanfill didn't do to the New York Jets last Sunday was get them penalized for having an extra man — Stanfill — in their backfield.

Stanfill sacked Jet quarterback Al Woodall four times, dropped rookie backup Bill Demory once and was credited with five assists as the Dolphins kept the Jets to 139 net yards while winning 31-3.

The Associated Press named the 6-foot-5, 250-pound Stanfill as National Football League Defensive Player of the Week because of his performance.

"We're real pleased for him to get the recognition," Dolphin defensive coach Bill Arnsparger said Tuesday. "Bill had an outstanding game."

"He put on a lot of pressure and helped us stop their running game which, of course, let us work on their passing."

Stanfill's storming forays into the Jets' backfield helped hold Woodall to four completions on 15 passes and the untested Demory to two of five. Each had two intercepted.

Jardine worried about Greene

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Former all-star Bob Falk, quarterbacking the University of Wisconsin reserves, tried to emulate Ohio State's Cornelius Greene Tuesday as the Badgers prepared for Saturday's game with the nation's top ranked college football team.

"Falk gave them (the regulars) a good look, but of course he can't duplicate Greene's speed," Coach John Jardine said.

Jardine considers Greene, a sophomore, one of the nation's most explosive and versatile option quarterbacks, a breed which has caused Wisconsin inordinate problems for several years. Wyoming's Steve Cockreham, himself an option quarterback, rolled up 246 yards passing against Wisconsin last weekend, although the Badgers amassed 548 yards rushing and won 37-28.

"Greene is even better than Cockreham because he's quicker," Jardine said.

"We aren't playing close enough to people," Jardine said of his pass defenders. "And we've got to put more pressure on the passer. But with that bootleg action by an option quarterback, you just don't put pressure on the passer."

"And Greene is a great runner, the best option runner I've seen in some time," he said. "We've never played anyone that compares to Greene. He's made a world of difference to their offense."

Although the Badgers have lost 13 straight games to Ohio State since winning 12-3 in 1959, Saturday's victory did wonders for their attitude and confidence. UW had been described by several as "the best 0-3 team in the country" after losing its first three starts—including 20-16 to second ranked Nebraska—by eight points.

"There won't be any problems getting up for Ohio State," middle guard Mike Jenkins said. "I think this week is going to start it off. We got a taste of victory."

"There's no doubt this is who we've all been looking for," Jardine said of the Buckeyes. "You can't believe how good they are, though."

Tight end Jack Novak, who sat out the Wyoming game because of a hamstring pull, rejoined the No. 1 offense and it appeared likely he will start Saturday.

Jardine indicated Ed Bosold, listed at first string defensive end before the season, may see his first action of the year following recovery from a variety of injuries.

Ohio State leads the series, 31 victories to seven. There have been four ties.

Billy Marek cited by AP

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Marek, who smashed Wisconsin's rushing record in a 37-28 victory over Wyoming, has been named the Big Ten player of the week on offense by the Associated Press.

Marek, a 5-foot-6, 180-pound sophomore, gained 226 yards in 29 rushes and scored three touchdowns including one for 50 yards.

His feat eclipsed the marks of Rufus Ferguson, Alan Thompson and Alan Ameche, former Wisconsin backs who had reached the 200-yard plateau in a single game.

Others considered for the award included Ken Starch of Wisconsin Gil Chapman of Michigan, Stan Key of Northwestern and Tony Dunny of Minnesota.

Bobcats to open without Purpurs

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Bobcats open their 1973-74 U.S. Hockey League season this weekend, apparently without the use of the Purpur brothers. The Bobcats travel to Sioux City, Iowa, for a doubleheader against the Musketeers, but Cliff and Dick Purpur, who had been among the team's leading scorers last season, will not make the trip. Both players are under contract to the Bobcats, but so far they have refused to report to camp.

It was reported that the brothers are in Madison, where a new league entry, the Madison Blues, is being formed. However, neither Dick nor Cliff would be able to play with the Blues because of their contract commitments to the Bobcats. It was also reported that two other Purpur brothers, Bob and Gary, may have signed contracts with the Blues, and this may have influenced Dick and Cliff.

Meanwhile, Bobcat Coach Paul Coppo is very optimistic about his team's chances, and concerning the Purpur situation, commented, "No one is indispensable, and we have some very good rookies, as well as returning veterans who will make the Bobcats as strong or even stronger than last season."

In the rookie department, Coppo is pleased with an entire new line made up of Tim and Terry Cullen and Bruce Sandbeck, all of International Falls, Minnesota.

Last season's leading scorer, Ed Chestowski, is back and will be joined by Randy McArthur, who was the team's leading scorer in 1971-72. McArthur sat out last season because of a conflict with his employer.

Also returning after a year's absence is "Fuzzy" Frenette, a 12-year veteran, who can skate at both defense or wing position. Defenseman Roy Harvey reported to the Bobcat camp this week, and will join other returning defensemen, Steve Ross, Bruce Riutta, and Carl Lackey.

Goalie, Ron Beck has returned for his third season.

Wolves harriers win

FREEDOM — Bob Meltz covered the 2.5-mile course in 14:12 Tuesday to pace the Winneconne cross country team to a 27-29 win over Freedom.

Placing for Winneconne were Don McDonald, 4th; Jeff Peterson, 5th; Chris Schaefer, 5th; and Darrell Modl, 9th. Dan Gerarden took second for Freedom, Deimer Geisel, 3rd; Duane Vosters, 6th; Dennis Van Rossum 7th and Gary Vosters 11th.

Investigating the Agnew leaks

Judge Walter Hoffman has given attorneys for Vice President Spiro Agnew power to subpoena just about anyone to try to find out the sources of the grand jury and other leaks concerning the investigation of the Vice President in what may be criminal activities. The move is unprecedented but then so is the current situation.

Individuals and organizations from the most conservative to the American Civil Liberties Union have decried the leaks. The remarkable factor is that they almost have to have come from the Department of Justice in the Vice President's own administration which further raises the question as to the current relationship between the President and the Vice President. Mr. Agnew castigated Henry Petersen of the Justice Department. In a subsequent news conference, President Nixon said that if Mr. Petersen were not conducting his business to the president's satisfaction he would have been removed by this time.

In his statement about the leaks, Judge Hoffman said, "we are rapidly approaching the day when the perpetual conflict between the news media, operating as they do under freedom of speech and freedom of the press, and the judicial system, charged with protecting the rights of persons under investigation for criminal acts, must be resolved." This is nonsense. The conflict, if that is what it is, will continue because there is no way to draw a stable line between those freedoms and protections.

The obvious example that counters arguments for suppression of the press also involves the Justice Department. It was another judge, John Sirica, who was not satisfied with the way the prosecution of the Watergate defendants was conducted. Judge Sirica offered the chance of lesser sentences to the convicted if they would give more information. James McCord gave in and the dam broke. But even Judge Sirica might not have been suspicious were it not for the Washington Post articles about the strange goings-on in the White House itself. It was some cooperation between press and court here that brought results. But what if the courts are not clean?

Mr. Agnew has charged that the Justice Department or some in it are out to get him because they didn't fulfill their responsibilities earlier. He vaguely cites organized crime but he might as well have said Watergate. The amazing and appalling information on Watergate has made freedom of the press pretty darn important.

Yet there is the problem of the rights of the accused or, in Mr. Agnew's case for instance, only the investigated, being damaged by rumors on the air or in newspapers. Courts have decided that individuals have not received fair trials because of the amount of slanted publicity in advance. The news media in Wisconsin generally polices itself pretty well. But admittedly this is not an ideal situation. Yet what is the alternative?

The matter is not about to be resolved, Judge Hoffman. Continual conflict appears to be essential for the freedom of all Americans. For want of a better solution we'll just have to rely upon the responsibility and honor of both the news media and the judicial system.

A war powers bill

In contrast to 1972 when the subject died in a Senate House conference committee, Congress appears on the verge of agreeing on a so-called war powers bill. There seems little doubt that President Nixon will veto the bill, but Congress should accept the challenge.

What war powers legislation is all about is to try to find a means of the President and Congress sharing responsibility for military commitments in an age when it may not be possible for the nation to use the time needed for Congress to debate and vote on a declaration of war as the Constitution directs. The constitutional conflict is between those powers to declare war of Congress and the President's assignment as commander-in-chief, an assignment which can require an instant response.

The case in point, of course, was the nation's step-by-step course into the Vietnam quagmire based on executive branch decisions, though Congress did overwhelmingly support the Gulf of Tonkin resolution after the fact. The need to find something that will work was further illustrated by the continued bombing of Cambodia after the cease-fire in Vietnam, a bombing Congress finally stopped through its power of the purse.

As last year, the Senate and House this session passed different bills. But Rep. Clement Zablocki of Milwaukee and Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, chief foreign policy negotiators on the conference committee, have announced an agreement which now goes to both houses.

The compromise would require Congress to vote its consent to a military undertaking ordered by the President after 60 days. The House bill had set a 120-day limit while the Senate bill set a deadline of 30 days.

The bill would set forth specific language for the President to act as commander-in-chief. The President could order in troops to repel, retaliate against or forestall an attack on the United States or its territories, to repel or forestall an attack on American troops abroad or to protect the evacuation of American citizens whose lives were in danger in trouble spots abroad.

While this language is very broad — as it must be — President Nixon has said he will veto the bill because it violates constitutional powers of the President as commander-in-chief.

Despite the apparent deadend from a veto, Congress should approve the bill if for no other reason than to sponsor the public debate the conflict will bring. And if nothing else the topic should become an issue in the 1976 presidential election. The United States should learn from the disaster of Vietnam.

John Wyngaard

Initiative, referendum goal of reformers

MADISON — Some of the persons involved in the agitation for the recent Wisconsin probate law "reform," as they like to describe the new legislation they supported with considerable impact, have now chosen the initiative and referendum method as their next major goal.

More simply stated, what they want is a constitutional change in the state that will make possible direct legislation by the people, and, in effect, circumvention of the legislature and the institution of representative government when the occasion appears to justify resort to such a method.

Reasons aren't clear

Thus far the campaign has consisted largely of some speeches by organizers and some press agency. It is not yet clear what goals in new legislation or in the repeal of existing laws have provided the motivation for the drive they say they are organizing. The presumption is that they hope to deluge the legislature with the kind and volume of signed petitions that they believe led to the substantial changes in the simplification of the probate process.

More objective observers tend to conclude that the new system of informal probate was an idea whose time had come and that there would have been a change in probate process without the tub-thumping during the last year.

Yet it is not a denigration of the probate changes, whatever their merits, to suggest that "I and R," in the shorthand of politicians, is something altogether different, of infinitely greater potential impact and significance, and will surely be more difficult to achieve.

Supporters of such legislation are saying that there should be an alternative to the constitutional system of legislation through a representative legislature, if only as a safety valve. As far as the record has shown, however, their petition drive intended to advance a constitutional amendment for direct popular legislation is not associated with any explicit grievance, by way of omission or commission.

The observer may conclude, indeed, that the boasts about the effectiveness of this demand upon the legislature for revision of the probate system tend to dilute their implied complaint that the elected representatives in Madison are not always representative or responsive.

The implicit justification for direct legislation is the idea that the legislature is not in fact responsive to the public will or representative of the broad public interest in its deliberations and its conclusions.

Legislation by popular initiative began about three-quarters of a century ago and continues today in some of the major states. California is perhaps the most widely noted example, but the repeated national publicity about the long ballots there, the frequent submission of numerous and complex propositions for popular judgment, and the tendency to use such an outlet for the expression of radical causes probably have done little to persuade thoughtful men and women here of the value or the need for a similar constitutional mechanism for lawmaking by popular action.

Those who demand a mechanism for direct lawmaking by the people imply, at the least, that the existing system is not representative or responsive or is somehow thwarting the public will.

That was the theme of the populist reformers at the turn of the century who conceived the idea of direct legislation as a means of thwarting special interest forces in state capitals.

No legislature is ever popular in the ordinary sense. It is always the target of criticism, and even ridicule, because of the thousands of conflicting pressures under which it operates, some of which must inevitably be denied. Yet such objective and academic studies as have been made in Wisconsin have shown that its legislature ranks comparatively high, in efficiency, in responsibility, accessibility, and popular participation.

Perhaps a sign of the doubtful prospects of the initiative and referendum sponsors is the failure thus far of any politician of whatever ideological leanings to acknowledge their proposition.

Our air supply is really limited

(During Mr. Harris's vacation, we are reprinting some of the best columns from his latest collection in book form, "For the Time Being.")

Some months ago, while doing research on the general subject of pollution, I learned how dumb I had been all my life about something as common and familiar—and essential—as air.

In my ignorance, I had always thought that "fresh air" was infinitely available to us. I had imagined that the dirty air around us somehow escaped into the stratosphere, and that new air kept coming in—much as it does when we open a window after a party.

This, of course, is not true, and you would imagine that a grown man with a decent education would know this as a matter of course. What is true is that we live in a kind of spaceship called the earth, and only a limited amount of air is forever available to us.

The "walls" of our spaceship are called the troposphere, which extends about seven miles up. This is all the air that is available to us. We must use it over and over again for infinity, just as if we were in a sealed room for the lifetime of the earth.

No "fresh" air comes in, and no polluted air escapes. Moreover, no dirt or poisons are ever "destroyed"—they remain in the air, in different forms, or settle on the earth as particulates. And the more we burn, the more we replace good air with bad.

Once contaminated, this thin layer of air surrounding the earth cannot be cleaned again. We can clean materials, we can even clean water, but we cannot clean the air. There is nowhere else for the dirt and poisons to go—we cannot open a "window" in the troposphere and "clear out" the stale and noxious atmosphere we are creating.

Perhaps every child in sixth grade and above knows this; but I doubt that one adult in a hundred is aware of this basic physical fact. Most of us imagine, as I did, that winds sweep away the gases and debris in the air, taking them far out into the solar system and replacing them with "new" air.

The United States alone is discharging some 130,000,000 tons of pollutants a year into the atmosphere, from factories, heating systems, incinerators, automobiles and airplanes, power plants and public buildings. What is frightening is not so much the death and illness, corrosion and decay, they are responsible for—as the fact that this is an irreversible process. The air will never be cleaner than it is now.

And this is why prevention—immediate, drastic and far-reaching—is our only hope for the future. We cannot undo what we have done. We cannot restore the atmosphere to the purity it had before the Industrial Revolution. But we can, and must, halt the contamination before our spaceship suffocates from its own foul discharges.

Senator Proxmire thinks the military is topheavy with brass. That's like saying Liz Taylor needs another diamond.

After 59 days in space, the Skylab crew returned to the gravity of the country's problems.

Foreign Minister Gromyko urged an arms cut of 10 per cent by the big five U.N. powers. Sounds like the Soviets are getting soft on war.

William F. Buckley

What if Arabs deny us oil?

Two or three years ago a reclusive and scholarly man of many parts wrote an article suggesting that the United States colonize Libya. Stated thus baldly the proposal is shocking, though of course it is a little less so if understood in a particular context. If it were projected by the statesmen of the world that to permit a stretch of territory to carry on as an international tinderbox would mean world war, it would presumably be better to take control of that country than to suffer the consequences of not doing so. If the head of the United States Secret Service had been mayor of Sarajevo in 1914, who knows, forty million lives might have been spared.

The author of the Libyan proposal argued the stabilizing influence in the Mideast of an American colony, or protectorate, or what have you, and stressed greatly the impact upon Mediterranean naval balance that would result from it. He failed however to stress a distinction which now, with the threat of King Faisal to withhold oil for the west, reiterated by the Arab lobby, it is timely to stress, as we give attention to the inherent rights of nations.

It's Christian Principle

It is an axiom of Christian social thought that the individual human being has the right to live. Translated, let us say into a community in which on the one hand there is abundance and on the other hand starvation, the starving man is not — according to Christian principle — guilty of theft when he takes a loaf of bread from the man who has a loaf to spare. The possibilities of abuse in the application of this rule are obvious: the starving man may take to stealing loaves of bread in preference to working in order to earn the money with which to buy the bread.

And it has a national application. Here we run instantly into what is an injustice of sorts, an injustice which, however, there is nothing to be done about. Just as a weak thief cannot succeed in taking a loaf of bread by force from a strong baker, so a weak nation cannot take oil from a strong nation for the simple reason that the strong nation can successfully resist the effort.

And then the distinction between taking from someone without compensation, and taking from someone with compensation. In national practice, as an exercise of power by the government over its own citizens, the distinction is carried in the words to "nationalize", and to "confiscate." The former is acceptable moral practice, the latter unacceptable.

We come then to focus these points on Mideast oil. As a matter of morals, an industrial nation dependent upon oil to avoid instant mass unemployment, the immobilization of its defense, and ultimately the starvation of its people, has the moral right to force a supplier to sell it the oil it needs. In days gone by, statesmen would be amused at the thought that anyone would painstakingly make the point, so obvious was it. But in days gone by the accepted practice, where Nation B had rice, or wheat, or timber, or gold, was to pit the armed forces of Nation A against those of Nation B for purely acquisitive reasons.

Somewhere along the line, the nations of western Europe should make a preemptive moral strike against hardening Arab policy. It would take the nature of saying: Mideast oil must be made available.

Should we land troops? What if the Mideast countries should say no? Should threaten, and perhaps proceed, to close the pipe lines?

Who says A — one should not tire of repeating — must say B. If western Europe has to have the oil, then it has to take whatever means are necessary to acquire it. Yes, that means that the Western military must, at the margin, be prepared to, let us say, land an expeditionary force in Libya.

But having done so, and having turned the faucets back on, the morally distinguishing feature of their enterprise is that they must buy the oil, not take it. Must continue as in the past to pay for the oil to the treasury of the Libyan people. Just so one might have imagined that if it had been essential to western security, the British fleet might have kept open the Suez Canal by force — while continuing to pay tariffs to the Egyptian government.

That analysis should be pressed, quietly and with civility, in the chambers of the world. The best thing about making such arguments is that it often results in not having to put theory into practice.

Report on meeting at City Hall

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Crescent, Oct. 11, 1873.

A meeting of the City Council occurred Saturday night. The usual lengthy string of accounts were allowed, amounting to something less than a couple of thousand dollars, for numerous similar favors of which the tax-payers may as well make up their minds to provide a pile to clear themselves, when the dread time comes around.

Side-walks were ordered on the north side of Seventh Street, 3d Ward, and on the east side of Durkee Street, 2d Ward.

The Poor Commissioner reported in favor of selling the present poor farm and uniting with the County in that matter.

A night police at large was authorized at that time.

The City Attorney was requested to advise the Council on the proper manner to proceed in re-graveling Pearl Street — the property owners on either side objecting to the improvement.

Bonds to build the Engine House were authorized to be issued and sold by the Mayor for that purpose.

The meeting then was adjourned until Saturday evening, the 11th inst.

Reader critical of page one picture

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

We (my family, neighbors and I) found it hard to believe the picture we found on the front page of last Thursday's Post-Crescent. I am referring to the "topless gal who is trying to change society."

With everything else that is going on in this so-called great society of ours, we couldn't understand why a picture of that nature had to be placed on the front page of the paper.

We are battling this situation enough in magazines, movies and TV, where the same thing is being flaunted in front of our younger generation. No wonder we have the problems we have, in all the sex crimes, unwed teenage pregnant girls and the like.

I must say, we were very disappointed.

ed in The Post-Crescent as we thought it in very bad taste to place a picture like that in their paper, much less on the front page.

If that's the best that's making news in our society, we really have more of a problem than I thought. We feel that The Post has made a move to put themselves in the class of some of the other "smutty" papers that are printed. It's really pathetic that all the good and humane things that are being done every day have to be replaced by a picture such as this.

I'd like to close by saying The Post-Crescent has our sympathy in that they feel they have to go along with bringing our society to a little lower level than it already is.

Connally finds going isn't easy favorite of the Republican right wing, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California). When Connally commented recently that the thought of being President would "terrify" him, one Republican Senator called it improper speculation on Connally's part as well as palpable nonsense.

Some political pros cold

2. Despite Connally's stellar debut, at the California Republican convention on Sept. 8 in San Diego, his appearances elsewhere have left some political pros cold. In New York, Connally went to Westchester County's exclusive Blindbrook Club for an evening with top-drawer leaders of the old Eastern social and financial establishment. One wise party pro told us: "That was a mistake. That is one club that politicians are never allowed into." In other words, Connally's visit excited jealousy rather than admiration.

Connally's coattail appeal, moreover, is not universally appreciated. National Committee operatives here reveal they notified party leaders in New Jersey that Connally would be available for a speech to help the underdog Republican nominee for governor, Rep. Charles Sandman. Sandman has not asked him in.

3. Potentially worse for Connally was his notorious outburst three weeks ago that the Supreme Court is not necessarily the "ultimate arbiter" of constitutional disputes and his less widely noticed attack on congressional Democrats last week for playing "partisan politics" with the President's right to fill a vacant vice presidency.

Asked by CBS about Democratic fears that Agnew's successor would be given an unfair advantage in the 1976 presidential campaign and that only a "caretaker" should be named, Connally said: "It seems to me to put the Democrats in a position where they care nothing about the country, nothing about its future. All they're concerned about is their own partisan politics."

Democrats won't help him

Some top Republicans fear that that attack on his old party cooked Connally's goose for any vice-presidency-by-appointment. They believe, along with highly placed Democrats in both House and Senate, that the Democratic Congress now is tilted sharply against Connally.

In addition, the new and strange terrain through which Connally is now moving — a Democrat-turned-Republican running for the first time for President — has caused embarrassing political slips for one of the nation's shrewdest politicians. All Washington recently chuckled over Connally's hope to the National Federation of Republican Women that Agnew would be found "guilty" (he meant innocent).

It has not been fatal. With the continued full support of President Nixon, Connally can afford a slip now and then. Nevertheless, politicians are amazed by bloopers from Connally, widely regarded as the politician who never makes stupid mistakes.

One top presidential aide explained Connally's uncharacteristic blundering since Mr. Nixon apparently tapped him as Agnew's successor this way: "I think he's looking a little too anxious." Connally emerged from virtual seclusion, following an unhappy stint as White House consultant in the early Watergate crisis, when Agnew suddenly found himself in deep trouble. Now Connally himself is in some trouble for the first time in his charismatic, all-victorious political career.

Discuss high schools

Trends and alternatives of secondary education were discussed by officials of three schools at the recent Xavier High School faculty meeting. The speaker was Robert Thom, center, vice principal of Shattuck High School, Neenah, who discussed problems and changes common to all school administrators with Brother Henry Power, left, Xavier principal, and Jerome Boettcher, an administrator of the Appleton Public School System. Former Appleton man heads ground systems in NASA space shuttle

A former Appleton man, Raoul Smith, will be the functional manager for electrical-electronic ground systems related to the space shuttle, which is expected to begin operations in 1979 at Kennedy Space Center, Fla. Smith, who has been with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for 10 years, is a graduate of Appleton High School and the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Smith, who holds a degree in electrical engineering, will receive his masters in business administration in December.

He spent 16 years in research, design and marketing for two major national firms before joining NASA. Prior to the shuttle work, he developed manned spacecraft launch requirements for the Apollo Program.

Death fear gives birth to course

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A special course at Johns Hopkins University here includes filling out your death certificate, planning your funeral, visiting a mortuary and touring the state morgue.

Topics include "Death and the Modern Man" and "The Meaning of Death."

The 24-year-old instructor for the graduate-level course on death is the head of the Religion and Philosophy Department of Baltimore's Cardinal Gibbons High School.

Stephen J. Vicchio, who taught a similar course last year at the Baltimore County campus of the University of Maryland, said when he was five years old all the power went off in his home and then news of his grandfather's death came. "Thereafter, I associated darkness and mystery with death," he said, adding that he continued to have unhealthy thoughts about death until he picked up Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross' book "On Death and Dying" in 1970. "It started building until now I am really involved," he said.

Vicchio said very few persons come to the class out of morbid curiosity. Most attend "because they really have fears, misgivings and apprehensions about death," he said.

"Certainly there are a lot of people like that. I still have a lot (of fears). It helps me to help them," Vicchio said. "There are some that have come to accept death and come here to share that."

About 20 students meet each Tuesday evening in a basement classroom in Gilman Hall to discuss such practices as cannibalism and the modern American funeral and such philosophical questions as afterlife.

Fish, wildlife given $24 billion price tag in southeastern states

WASHINGTON (AP) —A 5-year project to appraise nature in the same currency as a dam or canal has estimated fish and wildlife alone are worth a whopping $24 billion a year to recreation users in southeastern states.

Other areas of the country were not studied.

The study, due for release later this month, hands new ammunition to environment groups that feel the environmental costs of land and water development projects outweigh the economic benefits.

Economist Joseph Horvath, leader of the government-sponsored study, told a newsman the $24 billion estimate for the Southeast was, if anything, on the conservative side.

"You could go to the Supreme Court with this study, it is so thoroughly done," Horvath said in an interview here.

That is exactly where it may end up some day, as environment groups continue to file lawsuits to block federal construction projects.

Many projects, such as dams and other major public works, must by law be justified with proof that their benefits are greater than their costs.

But the intangible values of nature have been difficult to estimate in dollars, and have therefore been scarcely counted on the cost side of the cost-benefit equation.

Horvath, chairman of the Environmental Research Group at Georgia State University in Atlanta, said that when he took on the project in 1968 he had to find some way of estimating the dollar worth of environmental intangibles.

The result was the assignment of some 400 field interviewers to question 12,068 households from Maryland to eastern

Texas and from Arkansas to Florida — roughly ten times the usual sampling of the established nationwide public opinion polls.

The survey searched out residents who customarily indulged in hunting, fishing, bird-watching or other forms of recreation that depend on fish and wildlife.

They were asked how much a day of such recreation was worth to them, then, how much money it would take to persuade them to give up a day of wildlife recreation. A third question was how many days' pay they actually lost by taking time off for such recreation.

Those questions also were asked how much money they paid for travel, lodging and other expenses during "wildlife-based recreation."

The study did not try to evaluate the worth of non-wildlife natural values such as scenery enjoyed by photographers, campers or sightseers.

Horvath said preliminary results showed that wildlife enthusiasts figured such recreation was worth $24 billion a year to them and they would not give it up for less than $31 billion.

He said they actually spent some $4 billion a year on out-of-pocket expenses pursuing wildlife-based recreation.

Asked if the findings would make it harder to justify public works projects, Horvath snapped, "Yes, sir."

He said environment groups were well aware the study was near completion and were eagerly awaiting its release.

Horvath said the study, costing more than $300,000, was sponsored by the southeastern states' game and fish commissions and by the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, the U.S. Forest Service and the Tennessee Valley Administration.

Area youth in six-week science training program

COMBINED LOCKS — Joseph C. Sanders, 407 S. Washington St., was one of 50 high school students from throughout the nation to be selected for a six-week student science training program at Western Michigan University.

It involved intensive instruction in physics, mathematics and chemistry and was sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Xavier High — Five students from the school were among 18 from the state to attend the Wisconsin Language Centers Abroad program in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The students were James Laux, Mike McKinnon, Mary Jo Basch and Martha Garvey. They were accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Wisniewsky, the school's Spanish instructor.

The purpose of the program was to give youths an opportunity to study abroad under supervision and at a minimum cost. It was arranged by the Spanish Institute of the Continuing Education and Extension division of the University of Puerto Rico.

Fox Valley Lutheran — Freshman representatives have been elected for the student council. Darby Drews will be on the finance committee; Marty Grow, stewardship; Dave Lecker, entertainment; Mark Maas, finance; Ann Schroeder and Craig Zarling, both on publicity.

The ninth grade choir at Madison Junior High and the West High Jazz Band have been asked to perform at the

The choir is directed by Judy Hah and the band by Ike Spangenberg.

Appleton High School-West — A former West student, Katy Ligare, now with the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, has been working with Roger Kerstner, an instructor, and the West high media students in a production of an educational video pilot tape concerning the Horicon Marsh.

Miss Ligare is an environmental education consultant. The West students and educator shot and edited the tape which will be used to gain additional funds to support future high school programs of this type.

Xavier — Brother Henry Power, principal, will be in charge of appeals for the hot lunch program rates at the school. The official in charge of determining eligibility for free or reduced lunch costs is the Rev. John T. Mullarkey, administrator.

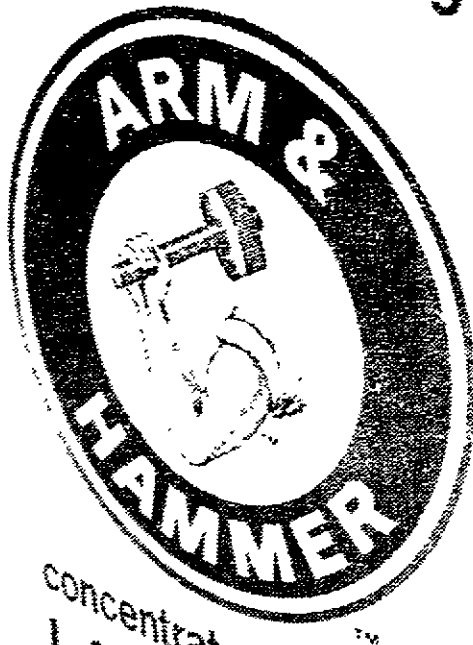

Lou Rawls divorced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Lou Rawls has been divorced from his wife of 11 years.

Superior Court Judge Lester E. Olson granted the divorce Tuesday to Lana Jean Rawls, 31. Custody of the couple's two children, Lou Jr., 5, and Luanna, 9, will be shared by the Rawls.

Word-square puzzle:
supply four words

BY CAPPY DICK

Boys and girls! How would you like to see the mailman bring you a packet of 1,000 colorful postage stamps from countries around the world? Here's your chance to have this corner was mailed in each area. Entries winning these prizes will be reviewed by the contest judges. Find the five neatest and most original of all.

The local prizes will be sent to the Cappy Dick Club, which will send the same prizes to the winners from all areas.

The word square to be solved is in the puzzle below. The blanks are filled with letters that will form a letter word which will read the same forward and backward from top to bottom and left to right. The word is the name of something horses eat. Row No. 2 it is a useful word. Row No. 3 the word is a useful designation and for Row No. 4 it is something found in a beach.

After finding the missing letters in the square, clip out the picture and paste it on paper. Beneath it print your name, age, address and Zip Code number. Distribute the entry in any neat, original way with your drawings or cutouts. Finally, address it to Cappy Dick's Midwest Stamp Contest at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the winners will be announced here and their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none will be returned.

Win 1,000 stamps

exciting experience. We give you an excellent start in the educational world of stamp collecting.

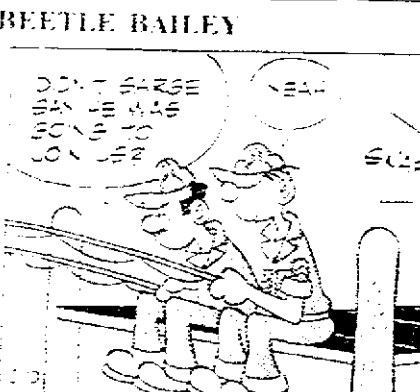

Five such prizes will be awarded as the national grand prizes in today's word-square puzzle contest. One will be won by each boy or girl whose contest entry proves to be one of the five neatest and most original correct ones received from all of the cities where this column will be published.

There will be 5 additional awards in each city. These will be local qualifying prizes given to the boys and girls whose contest entries are judged to be the 5 neatest and most original

Brokers, bankers in dispute

BY JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A long subdued battle between the banking and securities industries is bursting into the open and soon may lead to a confrontation between regulatory agencies and maybe Congress too.

On one side is a weakened securities industry beset with more problems that it can effectively deal with at the moment but which is determined to fight against what it feels is encroachment by bankers.

Challenging them is an energetic, financially powerful banking industry that, in its efforts to expand the service products it offers customers, may be straining the meaning of regulations separating the two.

The latest episode involves the automatic investment programs being promoted by banks as a technique for the individual investor to accumulate small amounts of blue chips stocks, paying for them through monthly deductions from his account.

The banks publicize this as still another service to customers, politely declining to point out that in many instances they are merely picking up the small accounts that brokers once had but then dropped as uneconomic.

But, while maintaining that such business may still be unprofitable for them, the brokers view the move by banks as a thrust into their midst that could, if unchecked, devour them.

"We suggest that 'intrusion' is an inordinately gentle word to describe these activities," James Needham, New York Stock Exchange chairman, told the House Committee on Banking and Currency this week.

Earlier this month he sent a letter to the comptroller of the currency, James Smith, and to Ray Garret, Jr., chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. These men and their offices are the chief regulators involved.

The brokerage fraternity argues that it has been the intention of Americans ever since the depression of the 1930s to separate the banking and securities trading function.

The Glass-Steagall Act of 1933 sought to prohibit national banks from engaging in the sale and distribution of securities. On Feb. 27 of this year, however, the comptroller issued a statement that seems to permit automatic investment programs.

The New York Stock Exchange views this ruling as the latest incident in a gradual erosion of its prerogatives and a further blurring of the distinction between broker and banker.

In his testimony before the House committee, Needham suggested that "a strong argument can be made that the Congress—as the maker of public policy—should clearly state what is permissible and what is not."

Before that stage is reached, though, a lot of fireworks are set to explode. The securities industry is only slowly awakening to what is now seen as a serious threat and is arming itself with legal opinions.

The bankers, for their part, aren't likely to waste any time developing their business, which can be enormous. Seemingly energized by their very activity, they seem in a mood for innovation and expansion.

Much more so than brokers, who actually scorned the business of small investors, bankers are aware of the growing savings accounts and financial sophistication of ordinary Americans and seek to sell services to them.

To accommodate the castoffs of the brokers would be a simple matter since the customers already are coming through their doors. So simple, in fact, that the urge to test regulatory limitations is irresistible.

Sometime in the near future a referee will have to step in to separate them—the comptroller, the SEC chairman, Congress, the courts—not so much for the sake of the antagonists, but for that of their customers.

FBI director urges lawmen, be more candid

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley has urged the nation's lawmen to be more candid with newsmen and the public.

"It is disappointing that both the police and the press have come to view each other with suspicion," Kelley wrote in this month's issue of the widely circulated FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

Kelley said lawmen "cannot deny due process of the law to those implicated in a crime by premature disclosure of the facts," but they should be "forthright" in many dealings with the press.

They "must be prepared to justify to the community the need for their department's programs," said the FBI chief.

He is expected to outline the policy as it applies to FBI agents in greater detail in a speech before a newspapermen's group Thursday, and in a series of management seminars for FBI officials beginning Oct. 26.

Kelley took the top FBI post four months ago after more than a decade as Kansas City police chief. Since arriving in Washington, he has often stated he wants the agency to be more open in its dealings with the news media.

Menasha voters kill consolidation with Neenah

DOUG KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent staff writer

chorused a resounding "No" Tuesday whether Neenah and Menasha should be consolidated into a single municipality. The 6,547 eligible voters going to the total consolidation was overwhelming — most 4-to-1, effectively ending debate.

was trounced in all six wards as was partial merger questions.

on questions were being soundly a charter ordinance to extend the two to four years, voters gave a redevelopment project strong endorsement.

consolidation attempts which start in the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance on whether municipal merger would be a good idea.

consolidation is not new. It dates back a century and has been embroiled in the same controversial debate on combining forces as a single city.

Now, with the cities of Menasha and Neenah midway through a joint centennial celebration, the consolidation issue again had come to the forefront as a special task force, headed by retired industrialist William Kellett, launched an in-depth study of the economic and political ramifications of merger broached by the WTA report.

The study, completed in early summer, projected savings of perhaps $600,000 plus increased political clout as a single and larger city of almost 40,000 people.

Facing negotiating consolidation with Neenah without really knowing what voters thought, the Menasha City Council ordered the advisory referendum.

Besides asking if the cities totally should consolidate, the ballot also posed individual questions on merging the two school systems, health departments, police and fire departments, public works and park-recreation departments, and maintaining a single city hall.

Voters recorded a strong "No" on every question by at least 2-to-1. The closest vote concerned merger of the two health offices — which had been supported by personnel within the departments. That lost by 1,291 votes, with 2,544 against and 1,253 in favor.

Question asking whether Menasha should sell its municipally owned electric utility was defeated, 3,179 to 884.

Despite fears by city officials that the redevelopment question might be rejected along with everything else, the electors gave it a strong vote of confidence.

The 2,497 to 1,568 vote will clear the way for the Menasha Redevelopment Authority (MRA) to start serious negotiations with a Minneapolis developer.

Ravenhorst Corp. plans a 13-15 store shopping complex in the city's downtown area, but has asked the city's help by providing the parking, public works projects and land purchases, which could take up to $500,000 in city money to accomplish.

Electors indicated approval of borrowing up to $400,000 to finance the city's share, and MRA has scheduled a meeting today to map out its next move.

The only mandatory question on the Tuesday ballot was whether the term of the mayor's office should be expanded from two to four years. Again the electors' message was "No" by a majority of nearly 600 votes.

Interest in the comprehensive — and complex — referendum ballot had reached a crescendo during the past week as committees for and against launched intensive telephone and personal contact campaigns to get their messages to the people.

After the resounding defeat, Kellett said, "It's obvious the people of Menasha do not want consolidation. I guess it's time for us to fold up our tent and quietly steal away."

Mayor James Adams, who had avoided taking a public stand although he had taken issue with the task force study on several items, commented, "We saved ourselves a lot of work (negotiating a consolidation ordinance.) I'd say it's not only dead, but there's about eight feet of ground over it."

Only Menasha voted Tuesday. Neenah officials had taken a wait-and-see attitude, knowing that if Menasha turned the consolidation attempt aside there would be no reason for them to pursue it.

Kellett, who in his charge of the task force earlier this year had indicated that the issue should be answered conclusively enough to either "carry it through or bury it," admitted that the time had come to bury it.

Nixon administration concerned now about what Russians are saying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is increasingly uneasy about a lack of Soviet restraint in the new Middle East war, but U.S. officials are not yet willing to publicly charge Moscow with irresponsibility.

The concern over Soviet attitudes is limited at this time to what the Russians are saying. The officials say there is no indication now that Moscow intends to get involved directly or will supply large new shipments of arms to the Arabs.

The officials are cautious in their judgment of the Soviet role for two reasons: they don't want to go on the record with a firm assessment that might quickly be proved wrong, and they don't want to get into a shouting match with Moscow.

So far, the officials acknowledge, this has been a relatively one-sided situation. The Soviets have charged Israel with aggression, and their United Nations ambassador, Jacob Malik, said Tuesday night that Israeli leaders are "international criminals."

In addition, Soviet officials in Moscow and Russian ambassadors are calling in Arab diplomats to advise them to give direct support to Egypt and Syria and to assure them of the Kremlin's full backing.

On the other hand, the United States has yet to issue a public statement in support of Israel. And, while the State Department and Pentagon say the Arabs struck first, they have not condemned Egypt and Syria for starting the fighting.

American officials say the administration is willing to accept this situation for several reasons. For one, any hope that Washington can be accepted by both sides in arranging an ultimate Mideast settlement could be destroyed by strong charges against the Arabs.

There is also concern about the

Hughes paid $100,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's close friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo has confirmed receiving two secret $50,000 payments from billionaire Howard Hughes, according to Senate Watergate committee sources.

The sources said the committee wants to learn whether the $100,000 was linked to a federal antitrust ruling said in published reports to have permitted Hughes to expand his Las Vegas, Nev., interests.

One committee member said he would like Rebozo and the rarely seen Hughes called to testify in public.

In today's public session the committee was to hear Michael W. McMinoway, identified as a $1,000-a-month paid GOP spy whose reports from inside the campaign of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Tuesday, the committee heard from John Buckley, a former FBI agent, who said Nixon political operatives codenamed him "Fat Jack" when he worked as a lunch-hour spy photographing internal documents in the campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Committee sources said Rebozo told staff investigators he received the $100,000 sometime in 1970 from Richard

Danner, manager of a Hughes-owned Las Vegas hotel. Rebozo said he returned the money last spring, to Chester Davis, a Hughes lawyer, the sources said. They said Davis would be questioned privately later today.

Several other Hughes associates have been questioned, the sources said. Among them is Robert A. Maher, a former Hughes executive, who has testified in a California lawsuit that Nixon asked Rebozo to receive the money which Maher said was intended as a campaign contribution.

Residents get a buzz from flies but want little buggers gone

MUKWONAGO, Wis. (AP) — Residents of a subdivision in this community west of Milwaukee want government action to stamp out a fly problem which they claim stems from a nearby mink ranch.

"We've lived here two years and we've painted twice because of the flies. That says something," said Mrs. Robert Frank, one of nearly 50 residents of the Meqwanego Heights subdivision to sign a petition asking that something be done.

The Town Board has authorized an investigation into the matter.

But Clerk Esther Christenson says it would be hard to control the problem.

"How can you get an ordinance controlling one man's flies?" she asked. "If they were branded or fingerprinted, we'd be able to tell where they come from, but the whole area is agricultural."

Paul Cooper, whose mink farm is described by the petitioners as the source of the problem, said he kept the facility clean. He said that, while some flies undoubtedly came from there, they also came from other farms in the area.

"If we could identify our flies, well, then we'd keep them home," he said.

Board Chairman William Bishop said it would be hard to draft an ordinance "with any teeth" against flies.

"I think the best thing is a fly swatter," he said.

News organizations take on Agnew

BALTIMORE (AP) — A group of newsmen and news organizations who had been ordered to name the sources of stories about the criminal investigation of Spiro T. Agnew filed legal counterattacks in federal court here today.

Motions to quash subpoenas issued by Agnew's lawyers were filed on behalf of two news magazines and reporters for The New York Times, New York Daily News, Washington Post, Newsweek magazine and NBC. The motions allege that the subpoenas violated protection of newsmen's sources granted by the U.S. Constitution and the Maryland Newsmen's Shield Law.

A slightly different attack was made by lawyers representing reporters for the Washington Star-News and CBS. Their motions asked U.S. District Court judge Walter E. Hoffman to permit the newsmen to sit in when Agnew's lawyers take depositions from top Justice Department officials concerning news leaks.

Agnew has claimed there was a campaign of news leaks prejudicial to him and won authority from Hoffman to subpoena anyone involved in the investigation, including government officials and newsmen.

The Justice Department, in a formal brief filed earlier, denied that anyone in the department was the source of news leaks about the Baltimore grand jury investigation of extortion and bribery allegations against Agnew.

Subpoenas obtained by Agnew attorneys ordered the Thursday appearance of nine reporters and two news organizations: Time-Life Inc., Post-Newsweek Inc., and reporters Richard Cohen of The Washington Post, Fred Graham of CBS News, Stephan Leshner of Newsweek, Ronald Nessen of NBC News, Ronald Sarro and Robert Walters of The Washington Star-News, William Sherman of The New York Daily News, Nicholas Gage of The New York Times and Sandy Smith of Time.

Meanwhile, Hoffman scheduled a hearing for this afternoon but it was not clear what would be taken up at the session.

The motions by the news organizations were filed amid indications that the grand jury would resume hearing evidence today regarding the vice president's dealings with engineers and contractors doing business with Maryland when Agnew was governor of Maryland from 1967 to 1969.

One of the briefs filed by The New York Times said that subpoenaing newsmen was improper and that forcing them to produce documents for inspection by Agnew's lawyers would violate rights guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution and laws of Maryland and New York.

The Washington Post said the subpoenas were not authorized by federal rules of civil procedure and that Judge Hoffman exceeded his authority in granting Agnew's lawyers power to subpoena newsmen for questioning.

DNR okays project delay

BY HAZEL THIEL
Post-Crescent correspondent

HILBERT — An extension, to Jan. 15, 1974, has been granted the village by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to submit new plans for its sewage treatment plant, the village board learned Tuesday night.

Engineers, Arthur and Associates, Fond du Lac, were recently advised that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) would not accept the third lagoon, but require filters enclosed in building which requires redesigning.

Orville Manz, village president pointed out that already about $35,000 has been spent on meeting requirements in order to apply for funding. The money has been taken from the village's general fund as a borrowing program cannot be launched until an amount is known.

The board agreed to borrow $25,000 to meet expenses. Funds will be in time to pay off the $20,000 borrowed recently.

Manz explained that because of meeting the clearwater requirements — testing, televising and sealing sewers, as well as expenses incurred in installing lights at Civic Park, the village has had unusually heavy financial burdens this year. He asked department heads to prepare for a new budget next month.

Gene Pethan and Donald Richart members of the volunteer fire department, discussed updating fire-fighting equipment.

Pethan reported that the department would like to sell the 1926 model Reo truck for an antique and replace the 1942 model Ford pumper. Pethan said a committee had been appointed to check prices for a new pumper.

The board had no objections regarding the sale of the 1926 vehicle. The men were told that the board was receptive to the idea of purchasing a new pumper and approved of the study being made. At present the village has a total of $10,923 in a fire equipment fund which grows at the rate of $1,800 a year through $900 a year rental to two neighboring townships. However, all major equipment is paid for from these funds.

In other business, the board received a formal complaint from Mrs. Sarah Joas regarding the annoyance caused by a barking dog belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Weixel. She explained that she was unable to sleep and had been unable to get the cooperation of the owners to move the animal to the north side of their mobile home.

The board instructed marshal Ernest Pitzen to ask the Weixels to move the dog to the other side of the building or further action would be taken.

It was reported that other people in the area were complaining about the dog barking at night, but were afraid to complain to the village. The board did take into consideration that rats in the area might be the cause of the dog's uneasiness. Pitzen said he felt that the trailer court owner should have regulations regarding pets.

Plans for sewer and water extension to the new butcher shop being built along State 57 by James Leibzeit were approved by the village at a special session, and have now been submitted for state approval. Construction of the new building began this week.

A model ordinance regulating planting of trees and shrubs was turned over to the committee. Manz said he felt that only about one-third pertained to what the village wanted. An ordinance regarding the new stop signs in the village also will be prepared.

Woehler issues appeal for caution on 'windfalls'

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

Outagamie County Board supervisors got their first look at the 1974 executive budget Tuesday and received along with it a plea from County Executive Alvin Woehler to be conservative and cautious in the use of windfall funds.

The budget as originally drawn up by Woehler called for a 39-cent reduction in the tax rate, but the figures have already changed. Woehler said a reworking of the social services department budget to stay within projected state allocations has resulted in a $50,000 reduction, but that a consolidation of projected programs under the new unified health services board shows an estimated $100,000 increase.

However, before the final budget is adopted in November another 10 cents has to come off the tax rate to meet the ceiling set by the state for Outagamie County.

Woehler told supervisors there would be no problem meeting that ceiling, but urged them not to get too generous and cut the rate much further. "We are fortunate in that we (Outagamie County) are affluent," he said.

While Woehler is estimating that the county will finish the year about $53,000 in the red, the county will have some $2 million in unbudgeted funds it could tap for tax relief or for special projects if it desired.

Woehler is estimating that the county will receive about $900,000 in federal revenue sharing funds next year. None of this money has yet been earmarked. In addition, the county will receive approximately $1.2 million from the state between now and next April to settle up past bills from the county health center.

Woehler is suggesting that $200,000 be taken from this "settling up" account to cover outstanding medical assistance costs that will remain in the social services department budget next year. This, he indicated, would get the tax levy about within the ceiling limit.

He also proposes taking another $200,000 to pay for proposed remodeling at the health center, an item not in the 1974 budget.

Second phase development at Plamann Park also could come from this fund, he told the board. The board is committed to park development, but it is not in Woehler's budget.

Other proposed new programs, such as a county health department, also could be funded through this windfall, he indicated.

However, Woehler warned, "be careful of starting new programs. In 1975 they will have to go on the tax levy." He urged that rather than use up all of the funds available this year, the county "should tell the taxpayers that they still have an $800,000 credit coming that will be applied in future years."

The executive conceded that another reason he wanted some of those funds left in the general account was the growing need for more cash to operate the county. "We need about $1.7 million a month to operate," he said.

He added that if a provision in the state budget requiring counties to settle tax accounts with the state by March 22 is upheld, the county might not have enough cash available at that time. The county normally settles with the state after all the local tax collections are in.

Woehler conceded, under questioning from Supv. Eugene Kloes, that all of the proposed tax rate reduction in the 1974 budget was a direct result of the state takeover of some programs. "Without the state takeover we would be up 18 per cent," Woehler admitted.

If the budget process had remained unchanged, he said, the county would be facing a tax rate hike of 51 cents, instead of a 39-cent reduction.

"The obvious intent of the governor was to reduce property tax rates," Woehler said. "But I don't concur in the manner which the charges were transferred."

This is the first time that all county board members received full copies of the budget a month in advance of the budget hearings. The board's finance committee will start its look into the budget next Monday.

Brillion okays first work in Sewage plant

BY JANICE JOHNSON
Post-Crescent correspondent

BRILLION — Preliminary engineering on sewage treatment plant expansion was approved by the City Council Monday.

Robert McMahon of McMahon and Associates, City engineers, was present to discuss the steps necessary to meet criteria established for securing financing for the program under the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

He noted that the first step is preliminary engineering studies and infiltration inflow analysis. In the second step engineering plans and specifications for a treatment and developed as well as collection and evaluation of sewer infiltration. Step 3 is actual construction of treatment facilities and repairs or corrections to the sewer system.

Engineering on steps 1 and 2 estimated at $5,000 done on a per-cent basis, will provide all data necessary for preparation of the grant applications.

Aldermen questioned if it would be possible to recover any funds paid to American Pipe Service under the grant program. McMahon said he was unsure but that an attempt could be made.

The federal government will provide grants of funds to cover up to 75% of the engineering and construction costs of the entire project and Wisconsin provides the amount necessary to bring this up to 80%.

More specifically, the first step will include the infiltration/inflow study reviewing all existing data and estimating base sewage flows and estimates on what portion will be impossible to eliminate economically. E.P.A. requires that any industry contributing 10% or more by volume or strength to the system be considered separately in the analysis of assessment of the capital and operation costs. Studies will deal with the major industries and also analyze the possibility of accepting pre-treated wastes from the canning company.

Alternate methods of disposing of sludge and liquid effluents as required will be considered, based on estimated population and industrial growths over the design period of the expansion, and considering the amount of pre-treatment utilized by the industries. Meetings between city officials, engineers and industrial leaders will help determine alternate possibilities.

Prior to submission of the application forms for E.P.A. aids, a public hearing will be required concerning the impact of the project on the environment.

In other action it was proposed by Mayor Clarence Wolf that data be compiled regarding the daily discharge of water into Spring Creek from municipal and industrial sources. Wolf suggested that after information is compiled, a resolution be submitted to the DNR designating Spring Creek as a navigable stream and requesting it be placed on a navigation plan. The creek has become a gash and is permitting a natural drainage for the city.

Also on the agenda was clean-up and demolition of several garages as a result of a demolition order from the health and safety committee. Demolition of garages at 447 Pine, 143

School tax rate drops one-third

NEW LONDON — A tax rate of $12.52 per $1,000 of equalized valuation, a decrease of $6.17 from last year's $18.99 tax rate, was approved Monday by the board of education. It represents a 32.5 per cent decrease.

The rate, which was increased slightly Monday to add a $69,519 contingency fund, provides for the raising of $1,193,559 in local taxes, more than $420,000 less than last year's levy.

The new state school aid formula, which was included in the state budget passed last summer, will give the district $1,326,969 in aids, a considerable increase from last year's $829,770 in state funds.

The rate will be based on a valuation of $93.1 million.

While the district will receive more state aids, it will lose about $22,000 in county aids, and will be required to pay $160,315 in teachers' retirement and social security benefits.

The board added the contingency fund in an effort to offset the uncertainty of next year's state aids, when a large increase in the qualified valuation is expected.

In other business, the board voted to continue giving free milk during a

New London asks change in school aids

NEW LONDON — A resolution asking that kindergartners be counted as full-time students for the computation of state aids will be introduced by the New London Board of Education when the Wisconsin Association of School Boards meets in January.

The board approved the resolution Monday after pointing out that the costs of student services are increasing and that many school districts are experiencing an enrollment decrease caused by the declining birth rate.

State aids for public schools are based on the average daily enrollment of districts, with kindergarten students counting as half a student, since they attend class half days.

The aids are computed by a formula using the average enrollment and equalized valuation of school districts.

Murder charge filed in Neenah shooting

OSHKOSH — A seven-week investigation into the Aug. 22 shooting death of Alvin Manteufel of rural Neenah culminated Tuesday in the filing of a first degree murder charge against Mrs. Noreen Kelly of Appleton.

Mrs. Kelly appeared in court shortly before noon today and was released on her own recognizance. Her attorney, James Long, explained that she knew she had been a suspect for the past 45 days and has not left the area.

In their appearance before County Judge James V. Sitter, Long asked dismissal of the complaint as it appeared to be based on mere suspicion that she committed the crime.

Sitter adjourned the case until 9:30 a.m., Oct. 17, at Neenah at which time Long will submit all motions. Dist. Atty. William Carver asked that motions be put in writing.

No date was set for the preliminary hearing but there is a 20-day time limit in which the preliminary has to be held unless it is waived.

Mrs. Kelly, 44, reportedly had been living with Manteufel at his home at 1129 E. Fairview Road, Town of Clayton. She has since moved and her latest address is 602 S. Mayflower Drive, Appleton.

Manteufel, 68, was shot in the back at about 6:45 p.m. on Aug. 22 while he sat at a kitchen table. He was dead on arrival at Theda Clark Hospital. A subsequent investigation revealed he had been shot with a 30-30 rifle, which was found under the front porch of his home.

According to the complaint against Mrs. Kelly, an open box of 30-30 cartridges and an empty rifle case were found in a bedroom closet that also contained the woman's clothing. A suitcase bearing the name Noreen Kelly was found in the same bedroom.

Investigators said they found two persons who linked Mrs. Kelly to the vicinity of the shooting, including a woman who had rented an upstairs apartment from Manteufel. The other was a neighbor who was told of the shooting and called the sheriff for help.

He added that if a provision in the state budget requiring counties to settle tax accounts with the state by March 22 is upheld, the county might not have enough cash available at that

Burglars take cash, checks

SEYNOUR — Cash and checks totaling $575 were reported stolen after an early morning break-in today at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club, 138 Morrow St.

The burglars apparently gained entry by removing the wire from a furnace room window in the rear of the building, and then pried open three cabinets in order to find and cashbox containing most of the money.

The cashboxes were pried from a pinball machine, two pool tables and a juke box, but no liquor was taken and no other damage was reported.

Club officials said the intruders apparently left through a rear door, and that the break-in took place between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m.

CLINTONVILLE — The school board Monday night voted to revise the bottle milk bid price to reflect the announced Class I price originally bid, due to unprecedented price increases of the raw product.

The action came after the two district milk suppliers reported on the increase in the price of milk to them and suggested that the cost be reviewed monthly because of the anticipated raises in the cost of raw milk.

However, it was noted that adjusting the price monthly would cause collection problems and might have an adverse effect on the program.

In acting to revise the bottle milk bid price, the board said:

— Such an increase would be limited to the increase in raw cost per half pint of milk.

— The price of the bottle milk will be decreased in the proportionate amount if subsequent decreases in raw milk cost occur.

— These increased costs will be reflected in the special milk program by extra charges being put upon the $7,500 appropriated at the annual meeting and that when these funds are exhausted, the board will pass the total cost on to the students.

Bids submitted earlier from the two suppliers — Harland Kirchner of the Crystal Fountain Dairy and Ron Kriewaldt, local distributor for Morning Glory Dairy — were identical at seven cents per half pint of white milk and 7.4 cents per half pint of chocolate-flavored milk.

During September, Morning Glory supplied Dellwood, Rexford and Longfellow schools with a total of 9,167 half pints of milk and Crystal Fountain supplied the senior high, junior high and Bear Creek and Embarrass schools with a total of 24,937 half pints of milk. Both totals include white and chocolate.

Kriewaldt told the board Morning Glory had not given him a firm bid on price and that the school board had been an escalation clause in the bid.

The board then attempted to further define how the supply of milk was to be divided between the processors. Kirchner said he could supply up to 100,000 pints for the regular school year and would supply the rest of the year.

The board instructed Superintendent Wadleigh to meet with the principals involved to see if a satisfactory arrangement can be entered into immediately. If this can't be done, the problem will be presented at the next board meeting.

Wadleigh told the board that although an exception to cost control in the amount of $123,450 for the 1973-74 budget expenditures was reported (in the news media) as being granted by the state Department of Public Instruction, no details or official word had been received at that time.

The financial statement was presented and discussed briefly. The board also had the opportunity to secure bids for monthly milk and to request any state aid money that would be needed to meet the needs of the district.

The clerk was instructed to write a letter to the state Department of Public Instruction requesting that the state aid be paid during the next year.

The first meeting was given of a principal and principal in exceptional teachers. Two readings are required before adoption.

The board received a notice from Standard Oil during the price of 16.07 cents per gallon for No. 2 fuel oil effective Oct. 15. This compares with 14.77 cents per gallon which had become effective Oct. 1.

Residents of Apollo Court spoke regarding recent curb and gutter installations. Ralph Haberlund complained that a 3- by 2-foot section of blacktop had been removed from his property. It was noted that the blacktop was in the platted width of the street and city affairs committee was assigned to investigate any possible reimbursement. No figures were available on assessments to be made.

The police committee said bids for a new police car will be opened on Nov. 12. Specifications will be the same as last year. It also reported that parking on Washington Street will be limited to one side during construction work at the school to guarantee access for emergency vehicles.

A letter was received from the League of Wisconsin Municipalities notifying the city that dues have been increased and have been estimated at $27.50 for 1974.

Confirmation was given to the appointments of Pfeffer and Robert Endries for 4-year terms on the park board.

Mayor Wolf said that the city can expect to continue to feel adverse effects from the present redistribution formula for state aids. He said Milwaukee can afford to lower its tax rate but small municipalities around the city are feeling the pinch. He said he has contacted local legislators urging them to attempt to put the formula "back into perspective."

The board approved a job description for Herb Mehne, the local vocational coordinator, that calls for a baccalaureate of higher degree with a major in a vocational or related subject. It also requires college work in the issues and philosophy of vocational education, curriculum planning and development, guidance with an emphasis on career development, and administration of a public school district.

Three years of teaching in a vocational subject area, and at least 2,000 hours of work experience outside of teaching also is required.

The board voted to participate in a special education assessment program with the Cooperative Education Service Agency (CESA) for $250.

Pulp wood from the thinning of the school forest will be sold to Rodney McIntee of Bancroft for $5.02 a cord.

The board also approved the undertaking of preliminary work for an educational trip to Germany next spring for German students.

CLINTONVILLE — School safety patrols have been organized for the 1973-74 school year.

Sixth graders comprise the patrols at the Longfellow and Embarrass schools. At Longfellow, they are Penny Riske, Vicky Seeger, Bonnie Sakala, Lisa Schwartz, Lucy Riley, Dany Warner, Jammie Piotraschke, Laura Pink, Melissa Metzger, Barbara Friedrich, Joel Steward, Becky Fernal, Dianne Brisco, Kim Morgan, Kay Pitt and Nancy Lewis. At Embarrass, they are Terri Polzin, Doug Kruth and Gene Hackett.

John Zierles is captain of the patrol at the St. Rose Catholic School, serving with him are James Byer, Patrick Gebert, John Hogan, Steven Mallett, Steven Mauer, John Mijal, David Pierre, Thomas Schroepfer, Paul Schultz and Donald Wilken.

The patrol at the St. Martin Lutheran school includes Tim Buchholz as captain, Sandra Mueller, Sue Campbell, Tim Heditke, David Graper, Kathy Suehring, Julie Roloff, Janet Mauer, Mary McConley, Susan Schoenike, Lisa Zuhse, Cindy Smith, Robert Moser, Cheryl Gast, Matthew Hanson and Sandy Buelow, with Cathy Gast and Denise Buchberger as substitutes.

Classes set for baby-sitters

CLINTONVILLE — A baby-sitting clinic will be conducted by the Junior Woman's Club for boys and girls 13 and older. Sessions will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the junior high school on next Tuesday and Oct. 23 and 30.

Fire Chief Ed DuFrane and a police officer will speak Tuesday to the students. Mrs. Roger Metzger also will tell what a mother expects of a sitter.

At the Oct. 23 session, Mrs. Paulino Belgado, a registered nurse, and Mrs. Peter Oberhauser from the Clintonville Chapter, American Red Cross will present the program.

A film strip will be shown and a test given to the students at the Oct. 30 session. Refreshments also will be served that night.

On completion of the course, the students will receive a certificate and their names will be placed on a community list.

Registration for the clinic will be conducted through the schools. Anyone wishing more information may contact Mrs. Metzger.

Project committee members are Mrs. Metzger, chairman; Mrs. Emory Knitt, Mrs. Larry Brisco and Mrs. Doug Carrick.

A performance bond for the 1973-74 school year for Clintonville School-Way was acknowledged. This firm has the school bus transportation contract with the district.

The board was informed that follow up letters are being sent to those people who did not reply to the first letter asking them to serve on a Citizens Advisory Committee.

Glen Detro, junior high school principal, reported on the formation of a youth group comprised of students 12-15 years of age interested in summer employment.

The regular meeting was adjourned to executive session to discuss negotiations.

will be advised to have corrections made within three months or face $100 fines.

The board agreed to wait until spring to make improvements in and around the new shelter building at the park, then do the entire job on contract.

Approval was given the fire department to purchase 500 feet of 2 1/2-inch hose and 300 feet on 1 1/2-inch hose.

Bills for curb and gutter installations will be sent now. Costs are based on $2.05 a foot.

Street committee will inspect the area near the high school garage at 5 p.m. today regarding putting culverts in the ditch. The school district had asked that it be filled at school expense, but officials feel culverts should be installed.

Stop signs will be installed on both sides of the road where trees overhang, and a warning sign placed ahead.

Halloween festivities planned by Jaycees for New London children

NEW LONDON — The local Jaycees again are planning a parade, cartoons and a teen dance for their annual Halloween festivities Oct. 31.

Prizes will be awarded for costumes, and a treat will be given to all children, according to Chuck Schmalenberg, general chairman.

Plans for the activities will be discussed when the club meets at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Franklin House. Reports on the recent punt, pass and kick contest will be given by Larry Kamp and reports on the kick-off dinner and community survey committee also will be given.

Keeping posted

CLINTONVILLE — Because of the steak fry being sponsored by the American Legion this evening, trap shooting at the Clintonville trap range will begin at 7:30 rather than the regular hour of 6:30.

Hilbert faculty outlines school guides progress

HILBERT — The progress of writing behavioral objectives were explained to the board of education during a recent special meeting by members of the elementary and high school faculty.

The staff has been developing, writing and rewriting individual curriculum guides, now called behavioral objectives, for nearly four years.

All teachers wrote goals, achievements and accomplishments of various disciplines. Using procedural methodology outlined in four in-service meetings. Principal Charles Breiden said "it provides a common thread" and explained that now it is easy to accommodate new faculty members.

Teachers noted that they now have "direction" and know "what's important" and "what's important enough to measure in each case."

The guide sets standards for both instructors and students.

Teachers explaining the benefits included Pat Eschenbach, English; Dwight Loveland and Robert Gensert, science; Mrs. Dorothy Wenzel and

4-H project seeks recruits

CLINTONVILLE — In preparation for this week's observance of National 4-H Week, local junior and senior high school 4-H members spoke to all fourth, fifth and sixth grade classes in the public and parochial schools in the area.

It was part of a countywide project. The purpose was to inform these children about 4-H. If enough interest is shown within the city, a club will be established and all interested students will be invited to join.

4-H members who talked at the schools were Ann Olson and Lorraine Disanto, Embarrass Elementary; John Malotky and Peter Kirchner, Dellwood; Daryl and Garry Schroeder, Danny Wait, and Amy and Sara Behnke, Longfellow; Marcia Raisler and Dawn Schoepke, Bear Creek Intermediate; Arlene Malotky and Amy Raisler, St. Martin Lutheran; and Teresa Christman and Brenda Westphal, St. Rose Catholic.

Local clubs and leaders are North Star, Jerry Wait; Woodland Badgers, Mrs. David Schroeder; Hillside, Mrs. Kenneth Raisler; and Bell Corners, Mrs. Cliff Orr.

Anyone interested in joining a 4-H club is asked to contact any leader.

STEVENS POINT — Donna Gitter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gitter, route 3, New London, has been awarded the Colman Scholarship for musical students.

The award, presented annually to music students at the university, is funded by Susan Colman, a former professor at Stevens Point.

The scholarship is awarded after auditions and is based on musical performance, academic standing and faculty recommendations.

Spiritual message from Boone Applefest show

Applefest's featured Pat Boone show will "be appealing and have a message," according to Kip Vincent, an Applefest official. "You are really going to get something out of this program," she said.

The Pat Boone show, cosponsored by Applefest, Inc., and Key 73, will come to the Appleton High School-East gymnasium for two performances on Oct. 14. Shows will be at 4 and 7 p.m. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and retired persons.

Tickets can be purchased at the Appleton State Bank, First National Bank, Northern State, Outagamie and Valley National Banks, the Bank of Kaukauna, the Bank of Menasha and the First National Bank of Seymour. Reduced prices are available for groups.

The show features Boone singing current hits as well as favorites like "April Love," "Love Letters in the Sand," "Friendly Persuasion" and sacred and inspirational songs.

Special guests in the show will be The McCrarys and Greg Shideler. The McCrarys, a young, black group of three brothers and two sisters, sings and performs with an upbeat sound which ranges from original soul interpretations of top 40 songs, from ballad to semi-classical.

In 1969, The McCrarys began a series of nationwide tours. Their goal has been to break down the wall and help bring all people together.

Though they lead the firm, these members say they find strength in working together to bring happiness and understanding into the lives of others.

Kathryn Hernes, kindergarten; Mrs. Ruth Ann Moede, first grade, and Carol Hauser, sixth grade.

Elementary teachers told of the reading readiness program in kindergarten following through to first grade. Mrs. Moede said the best of the three available reading programs, is used to encourage learning and reading ability. Now each teacher knows what the others are teaching.

Supt. Richard Yenchesky said the aim of the school was to provide students "with meaningful, personal experience every day" pointing out the leadership the school had gained since Brenden joined the staff. He noted that the emphasis is taken from the teacher to the student, "teacher image has changed; teachers are no longer reciters, but are resource person."

Girl Scouts open new year at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Junior Girl Scout troops, for fourth, fifth and sixth graders, have started their new season.

Junior troop 163 will meet Thursdays at St. Martin Lutheran Church. Mrs. Michael Mayer is the leader, with Mrs. Cal Roloff and Mrs. Harold Aronson the assistants. Troop committee members are Mrs. Jack McConley Jr., treasurer; Mrs. Tony Henn, badges; Mrs. Robert Harris, cookies; Mrs. James Dopson, transportation; Mrs. Robert Duwe, telephone chairman, and Mrs. Kendal Kempf is the troop first aider.

Junior troop 127 will meet Wednesdays at Christus Lutheran Church. Mrs. James Mackowiak is the leader, assisted by Mrs. William Gehrke and Mrs. Pat O'Connell. Troop committee members are Mrs. Jack Kasson, chairman; Mrs. Carl Keller, telephone chairman; Mrs. Doug Frost, transportation; Mrs. Roger Erdmann, treasurer; Mrs. Roger Goerlinger, badges; Mrs. David Liebler, cookies and Mrs. Jack Kunath, first aid.

Mrs. Robert Duwe is the Junior Girl Scout organizer.

Cadette troop 133 meets Tuesdays at the First United Methodist Church. Cadettes are in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Mrs. Peter Oberhauser is the leader and is assisted by Joan Finnegan and Mrs. Lawrence Golke. Committee members are Mrs. Jerry Kuschel, chairman; Mrs. Charles Middleton; Mrs. George Wildeman, and Mrs. Donald Miller.

Mrs. C. H. Rafto is the senior advisor for Senior Girl Scout troop 265. Mrs. Gordon Rindt is the assistant advisor. Troop committee members are Mrs. Daniel McCarthy, Mrs. Owen Kersten and Mrs. Dennis Bessette.

The girls of troop 288 sponsor troop 303, a special group for handicapped girls. Anyone wishing to join this troop may do so by contacting one of the senior scouts or their advisors.

Says one, "No matter what our aspirations of personal attainment, helping others has always been the reason for The McCrarys."

Greg Shidler is the other special guest in the Boone show. The 19-year-old from Fort Wayne, Ind., is a comedian who has appeared on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show," the "Mike Douglas Show" and in other Pat Boone family shows.

The young performer focuses his situation, comedy around his voice. His vocal sound effects include Kittens purring, jet aircraft and explosions. His comedy act basically consists of hunting and fishing stories.

The center of the show is Pat Boone. His presence will generate dynamic, human, and spiritual dimensions for all who attend, say Applefest officials.

The show also will develop a community cohesiveness according to officials, and provide an opportunity to commend musical groups in the Fox Valley communities.

"The Fox Valley Symphony, the Lawrence University school of music, the choral and instrumental groups from the schools and the church choirs have added significantly to the spiritual and cultural values of life in the area. Boone's appearance is a compliment to their accomplishments," said Applefest promoters.

Pat Boone has sold more than 45 million records and has 13 gold records and seven gold albums. He is currently under contract with MGM Records.

Boone recently published a book entitled "A New Song," in which he describes how his spiritual beliefs caused him to "experience a new life."

Boone also has recently completed a TV special, "The Miracle of America." The theme is that America's existence is a miracle, that miraculous things are occurring today in the United States and that people can look forward to more miracles if they recognize source of the miracles.

worked out yet, and evaluation has to be made.

The biggest problem lies in fitting parochial school students into the program at various levels, as the district has students who come from five different schools. Problems are evident, particularly in the science area.

It was suggested that perhaps teachers from all the schools could join for in-service training.

Teachers said that they would welcome parents to classrooms at anytime to view the individualized curriculum, "but not to expect it to be quiet" like when they went to school.

Plans for the new high school were approved on roll call vote, allowing for minor changes to be made, if necessary. The board also agreed to ask architect Don Kraemer to provide the plan for the fixed and movable equipment. Costs of increasing the pitch of the roof were not available for the meeting.

Several board members thanked board member Dennis Ribbens for the success of the board-faculty party. Ribbens said he felt that there was no longer an "us and them" attitude, and any problems that may have been felt previously between board and faculty "were based in imagination and not in fact."

Yenchesky pointed out that all votes taken by school boards and municipalities, according to state law, must be by roll call.

The possibilities of having two board meetings a month was mentioned. Data given were the first and third Mondays; however, no vote was taken.

Stockbridge school paper back again

STOCKBRIDGE — "The Arrow," the high school newspaper, is back after an absence of several years.

The paper, which began during the late 1930s originally was known as "The Arrow" in keeping with Stockbridge's Indian background. It was discontinued, then started again in 1947 under the name "The Sieve" — where everything leaked out. It was published twice a month and had 80 subscribers. In 1957 the paper was published once a month.

Mrs. Gary Bath, business education teacher, is the adviser. Mary Willems is the editor. Reporters include George Holzer and Richard Van Hoorn, sports; Mark Willems and James Holzer, activity; Diane Beyer, GAA and classes; Betty Ertl, drama; Cheri Van Dazwyk and Karen Propson, cheerleaders; Janet Maas, Pep club; Lynn Goesser, Sandy Schaefer and Shirley Zitzelsberger, horoscopes;

Mary Giebel, Kathy Schumacher and Diane Beyer, special events; Diane Beyer, Mary Giebel and Kathy Schumacher, humor, Rita Goesser, Sheila Van Astren, Jean Schaefer and Pat Gebhart are the typists and Terry Dohr and Betty Ertl, artists.

Outdoor lab teaches youth about trees, conservation

CLINTONVILLE — The annual fall outdoor education day for the sixth graders of the public schools at the outdoor educational laboratory, located in the Town of Larrabee, was scheduled for today.

Inclement weather Tuesday forced cancellation of the originally scheduled outing.

The purpose of this outdoor laboratory experience is twofold: To provide opportunities for the student to increase his knowledge of nature and conservation; and, to provide opportunities for the study of trees, including management and protection, for the student to become aware of the independence of life and environment, from the lowest form of life to the highest.

The objective its to observe and study the ecology of the area. The field presentation at various stations along the trail covered the sun-exposed community of highland plants (trees, shrubs, flowers and the like), lowland plants, and animal use of the environment; and the shaded or north slope community of plants and animal life in this environment.

Students were instructed in wood etiquette, on trees in the life of man, how trees grow, trees in autumn and deciduous forest. They also learned of the various uses of wood.

Wildlife and water in conjunction with the forests were covered.

The Department of Natural Resources personnel participating were Hugh Hayes, forester, and Kenneth Halvorsen, soil specialist, both of Waupaca; Arthur Clark, fire ranger, and Lawrence Forden, forest trainee, both of Wautoma; Richard Beyer, forester, Shawano, and William Fiala, soil scientist, Wausau.

The program was arranged to have each class of students meet with each DNR personnel for 30 minute sessions.

The outdoor education day is under the direction of the sixth grade instructors, Mrs. Marie Below, Mrs. Helen Lampert, Lowell Easley and Donald Primmer, all from the Longfellow school; Mrs. Elaine Taylor, Embarrass school; and Mrs. Lucille Konrad, Bear Creek school; and O. Reed Newton, elementary supervisor, and V. J. Wadleigh, superintendent.

Decals available for landfill site

NEW LONDON — Residents of New London and the Town of Liberty can get new decals for the sanitary landfill site at the office of the director of public works in the municipal building, starting Monday.

To obtain a sticker, residents must bring the registration of the vehicle that will be used to haul refuse to the site.

Only residents of Liberty and the city are eligible for the new decals, since the City Council voted last summer to stop permitting other area residents use of the landfill.

Only persons with the new decals will be allowed to dump at the site, east of the city on County Trunk S, after Nov. 17.

After this weekend, only persons with covered containers will be allowed to dump refuse at the site.

Watergate witness supports claims of political spying

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Special to the Post-Crescent

WASHINGTON — A former FBI agent, now working as a part-time investigator for Atty. Jerris Leonard, a former Wisconsin legislator, told the Senate that he has information to back up the claim of political espionage against Richard Nixon's 1968 presidential campaign.

John B. "Fat Jack" Buckley, contact man for a Nixon spy in Sen. Edmund Muskie's Democratic Campaign Headquarters in 1971 and 1972, made the claim as he defended his "deception" in planting a taxi-driver as a secretly paid "volunteer" in Muskie's headquarters to smuggle documents for the Nixon re-election committee.

Pushed for proof by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., that spying and "dirty tricks" are a "normal" part of politics as he claimed, Buckley said that he knew of instances in the 1960 presidential race and a 1964 West Virginia gubernatorial battle in which he worked.

"I have been investigating in recent weeks the activities of several trained investigators in the 1960 Kennedy Nixon campaign," Buckley told the committee which had granted him limited immunity from prosecution in return for his testimony.

Buckley said that he had been hired by Leonard, a former Wisconsin State Senator and assistant U.S. attorney general for civil rights under Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, to investigate charges of "espionage type activities."

"I have the specifics in 1960 and in 1964 and a general feeling that it is done in all elections," Buckley said.

After his testimony Buckley told reporters that he could say nothing more publicly about the evidence, but that it had been turned up in working for Leonard.

Leonard last summer surfaced charges that Carmine Bellino, chief investigator for the Democrats on the Watergate Committee, had attempted to bug Nixon's 1960 campaign on behalf of Democrats.

Leonard was immediately retained by GOP National Chairman George Bush to investigate those charges.

Bellino looked on, over Watergate Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin's shoulder, as Buckley made his comments Tuesday.

They came after Weicker pushed Buckley regarding his refusal to answer an earlier question about conferences with Leonard.

Buckley cited a "lawyer-client" relationship with Leonard, who went into private practice here after heading the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for the Nixon administration when Mitchell left the Justice Department.

Buckley told Weicker that he initially contacted Leonard in regard to legal questions regarding his spying activities in the 1972 campaign, and had gone to work for him on the 1960 case as a consequence.

Buckley testified that he was approached to create the infiltration plan for the Muskie headquarters in the summer of 1971 by Kenneth B. Rietz, chairman of the Young Voters for the President campaign.

Rietz is an Appleton native and served as an assistant to Rep. William Steiger, R-Wis., for several years before going into campaign management work.

Rietz headed the Republican National Committee 1974 congressional campaign organization after the 1972 elections, but abruptly resigned that post after Bush found out last spring that Rietz's name had been linked to the spying activities in the Watergate aftermath.

Rietz, who also subsequently retained Leonard as his attorney for Watergate related matters, denies that he ran a "kiddy spy corps" as has been alleged by some newspapers, but refuses to answer questions from the press about his activities.

Rietz subsequently was hired as an assistant to Mike Curb, president of MGM Records in Los Angeles, but left that post as well when Curb abruptly resigned his post in an internal shakeup several weeks ago at the firm.

Curb also employed the son of H. R. Haldeman, deposed White House staff chieftain, as a summer employee of MGM Records this year.

Buckley said that Rietz complained "almost from the first" about low quality information obtained by the spy infiltrated into the Muskie operation.

Rietz approved the spying plan and funded it at $1,000-a-month for seven or eight months, said Buckley, but was unhappy with the results. Rietz appeared disinterested in the information that was obtained, said Buckley of their street-corner rendezvous.

"Almost from the start he was late. There were occasions on which he didn't show up. It got to the point that I told him that if he couldn't be punctual, he could get someone else."

As a result, another contact began collecting the secretly photographed documents, said Buckley.

He called himself "Ed Warren," but after the Watergate break-in, Buckley said, he knew the contact was E. Howard Hunt.

"Warren" was punctual. He was on time. He caused me a lot less concern than Mr. Rietz had," Buckley testified.

Buckley denied he had violated the Hatch Act forbidding federal employees from working for the partisan election of a candidate. Buckley at the time was a full-time investigator for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

He said his information was not particularly useful to the Nixon campaign.

"I never discussed it with Hunt and I never had any information from Rietz that it was useful. On the contrary, I had complaints that the lighting wasn't right, or the film was fuzzy or upside down. There weren't many accolades," said Buckley of the contacts with Rietz.

Rietz lied about breaking Buckley's rules regarding the spying activities on one occasion, said Buckley.

Buckley insisted that the spy not tamper with mail, and complained when one memo on a Muskie position was leaked to syndicated reporters.

"I conveyed my concern to Rietz that it was not our business to be gathering information for the newspapers and if it continued, we would discontinue our operation. I felt that ours was an intelligence gathering operation," said Buckley.

Rietz denied that the memo was leaked by the Nixon campaign but Buckley added:

"A year later he admitted that he had lied to me and that the memo did come from the Committee to Re-elect," said Buckley.

The go-between also said he questioned some of the material sought by Rietz on the location of Muskie headquarters, the staff personnel, and Muskie's schedules of public appearances.

"I felt that I was furnishing a service they needed, but it didn't seem possible to me that they didn't know where Sen. Muskie's headquarters were. I knew that in 1967," he said.

Buckley said that he first met Rietz while working for the House Education and Labor Committee and had an office near Steiger's.

Watergate Committee sources said that Rietz has been scratched from the witness list for the "dirty tricks" phase of the investigation because interviews with him indicate he knows little more than Buckley had already revealed. The committee is rushing to complete its work by mid-November.

Safe gone, police look for suspects

FREEDOM — Outagamie County police are continuing their search for suspects after the theft of a safe containing more than $1,250 in cash and checks late Monday or early Tuesday from Freedom High School.

According to Supt. of Schools Dan O'Connell, the safe, weighing between 450 and 500 pounds, was rolled from the business office to the south side of the building, where the thieves used a large sheet of plywood to roll it down six steps into an industrial arts shop.

From there, the safe was rolled to a back door where it apparently was loaded onto a vehicle and taken from the area. As of today the safe had still not been found.

Police said no signs of forced entry were found, although the shop door was found ajar Tuesday morning.

They said the thieves may have entered the building, which was open for school activities to 10 p.m. Monday, and waited for everyone to leave before removing the safe, which measured 24-by-24-by-30-inches.

A smaller safe, used for classwork in the shop, also was taken, but there were no indications that it contained any valuables.

O'Connell said that there probably was more than one person involved in the theft. Nothing else was reported missing from the building.

GREEN BAY — A public program titled "Chile — another Vietnam?" will be presented Thursday at the Deckner Ecumenical Center, 338 Hartung St.

"Who Invited US?" a film about American foreign policy toward underdeveloped countries, will be shown at 7 p.m. Myra Goffo after the movie will give a firsthand account of the recent military coup. She was living with the family of a Chilean professor and was allowed to return home only a few days ago. Thomas Bossert, a graduate student who studied in Chile for a year, leaving the country three days before the coup, will discuss that country's present situation.
